

But There's Still A Draft in the Air

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's decision not to run for the Republican presidential nomination sent Richard M. Nixon's political stock skyrocketing today and stirred heavy speculation about the possibility of a movement to draft Rockefeller.

The governor left himself open to such a development. Nixon said, "I do not believe at this point that a draft is likely unless I make some rather serious mistake."

The former vice president, however, said he saw the possibility of this action. "I would suggest that at the convention, in the event the favorite sons do not make decisions before the convention, a draft could occur," Nixon said.

In California, Gov. Ronald Reagan said in a news conference he believes the delegates to the Republican national convention will choose the nominee—not the primaries. "Right now it would seem a draft could decide what would happen," he added.

Another Western governor, Paul Laxalt of Nevada, commented, "A big, unanswered question now will be whether or not this will stop the draft movement."

Rockefeller, in these words, said he is still available as the GOP candidate.

"I have said that I stood ready to answer to any true and meaningful call from the Republican party to serve it and the nation. I still so stand, I would be derelict or uncandid were I to say otherwise. 'I expect no such call. And I shall do nothing in the future, by word or deed, to encourage such a call.'"

Four Reasons

Rockefeller advanced four reasons for his decision not to try again for the Republican nomination and he pointed to Nixon's long lead as the first of them. The governor said:

"Quite frankly, I find it clear at this time that a considerable majority of the party's leaders want the candidacy of former Vice President Richard Nixon."

In a time of deep cleavages of American opinion over the problems confronting the nation, Rockefeller said, "I do not believe that the way to compose perilous national division is to create more partisan division."

Some members of New York's Congressional delegation view Gov. Rockefeller's decision not to seek the GOP presidential nomination as depriving the party of a chance to shape its policies through debate. Story on Page 23.

Further, he said "personal combat between two presidential aspirants" would have a decisive effect on his party as well as the nation.

"It would confuse issues and individuals, convictions and ambitions. It would be a dividing race between political personalities, not a healing race toward national purpose."

As his fourth reason, he said he wants to work for his widening legislative program, whereas contending for the nomination would entail leaving New York for the campaign trail.

Rockefeller made his announcement to an audience of between 400 and 500 reporters in a press conference and to viewers on national television.

No Regrets Visible

He looked completely relaxed. If he felt any regret over taking himself out of the race, he didn't show it. During the question period, he made quips and occasionally joined in the laughter.

His withdrawal came as a political A-bomb.

It had been generally assumed that he would run. The man Rockefeller had supported, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, pulled out of the race just before the New Hampshire primary, March 12.

Shortly afterward Rockefeller let's lieutenant's began sounding out Republican leaders across the country.

An aide said he seriously considered making the race. Rockefeller's press secretary, Leslie Slope, said, "It was an agonizing decision. This weighed heavily on him."

Another source said Rockefeller came to the decision last weekend. He confided it to Slope and State Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz Wednesday in an airplane taking them from New York to Albany.

Joining Happy

Before going to the press conference Thursday, Rockefeller telephoned his wife who is vacationing in the Caribbean. He plans to join her at Dorado Beach in Puerto Rico this weekend, Slope said.

Reaction to the governor's withdrawal poured in from all corners of the country within minutes after he announced his decision.

One of the first messages came from Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who defeated Rockefeller for the Republican nomination in a bitter battle in 1964. Relations between them have been strained ever since.

What in the World!

Mideast: the War Claims

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli forces returning home claimed that they wiped out four Arab guerrilla bases and killed 150 terrorists in their 15-hour invasion of Jordanian territory on the east side of the Jordan River.

The Israelis said they lost only 30 of their men. The Jordanians claimed 200 of the invaders were killed and said only 20 Jordanians were dead.

As the fighting ended, the Arabs and Israelis debated before the U.N. Security Council and sought support in the corridors and lounges at U.N. headquarters in New York.

Three Indicted

NEWARK (AP)—Reputed New Jersey Cosa Nostra figure Sam DeCavalcante and two other men were under federal indictment today in an alleged attempt to shake-down gamblers.

The arrests and indictments of the three Thursday climaxed a 17-month-long investigation by three federal agencies into organized racketeering, said U.S. Atty. David M. Satz Jr.

No Liberal Abortion Law

ALBANY (AP)—High ranking Republicans and Democrats in the legislature agreed today there was no chance that a liberal abortion law would be enacted this year.

They made this unqualified prediction in commenting privately on reports that a study committee appointed by Gov. Rockefeller would recommend a much broader bill than the one now before the legislature.

"Neither one will be passed," said a leading Republican in the GOP-controlled Senate. "In fact, I'm certain our house never will get to vote on the issue at all."

VIET: Significant Contact

SAIGON (AP) — American fighter-bombers smashed 165 North Vietnamese trucks carrying military supplies to the Communists' troops along the demilitarized zone in the last two days, the U.S. Command announced today.

South of the DMZ, U.S. military sources said the North Vietnamese have moved highly mobile 37mm antiaircraft guns up to the U.S. Marine fortress at Khe Sanh for the first time in the war, raising a serious new threat to the besieged base's aerial lifeline.

U.S. headquarters also reported that ground action in South Vietnam "continued at an accelerated pace" Thursday, and "significant contacts with enemy forces were reported in all corps tactical zones." Communists reported American, South Vietnamese and Korean troops killed 330 of the enemy in scattered fighting.

U.S. pilots reported 110 trucks destroyed or damaged Wednesday in North Vietnam's southern panhandle and the Mu Gia Pass area and another 55 destroyed or damaged in the same general area Thursday.

"It's not a fact that the truck traffic is increasing," a U.S. spokesman said. "It's a fact that the weather is breaking.

Navy A5 Skyhawk bombers flying off the carrier Bon Homme Richard raked 14 different groups of trucks along a stretch of highway 40 miles south of Vinh, where many trucks were destroyed the day before. Pilots reported touching off numerous fires.

Air Force pilots also attacked several fuel storage depots north of the Mu Gia pass and reported their 750-pound bombs touched off four secondary explosions and two huge fires, with smoke rising 2,000 feet.

In all, U.S. pilots flew 108 missions over North Vietnam Thursday. Other key targets included three airfields, and eight railroad yards and sidings along the vital northeast and north-west railroad lines to Communist China. One of the strikes was within 24 miles of the Chinese border.

The debut of the Communists' 37mm antiaircraft gun around Khe Sanh was termed serious by one U.S. officer who said: "It's a very good weapon. We want to get them out as soon as we spot them."

Field reports say seven of the 37mm guns around Khe Sanh are believed to have been destroyed, and no planes have been lost to the new antiaircraft weapon yet. But the reports say the guns have opened fire on CL30 cargo planes making supply drops and on jet fighter-bombers escorting the cargo carriers.

U.S. sources said the 37mm guns have an effective range of 8,000 to 10,000 feet and pack "a lot more punch" than the 50-caliber machine guns the North Vietnamese have been using against Khe Sanh's only supply route.

With an effective range of about 4,500 feet, the machine guns and other automatic weapons have knocked down three Marine jet bombers, two cargo planes and several helicopters. One of the cargo planes carried 49 persons; all were killed.

Nod for Fish, the Primary Fight Next

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Republican hopes to gain back the congressional seat now held by Democratic Representative Joseph Y. Resnick will be pinned to Hamilton Fish Jr., providing a primary battle does not cost him the nomination.

The five GOP county chairmen of the 28th Congressional District announced at Catskill's Skyline Restaurant last night that the congressional and executive committees of the Republican county organization unanimously endorsed the 42-year-old Millbrook attorney, the party's standard bearer in 1966.

The threat of a primary fight by Dutchess County Assistant District Attorney G. Gordon Liddy did not appear to bother party leaders gathered at the restaurant and one Republican chieftain claimed that the Liddy challenge was "a hopeless effort."

Party regulars see what appears to be the shaping up of a primary fight as ironic. It was the 1966 primary battle between Alexander "Sam" Alldrich and Fish that scored deep lines in the county organizations and, in the opinion of some, virtually assured the reelection of the Ellenville Democrat.

Lost In Dutchess

Fish lost the '66 election by some 7,000 votes, with the Republican attorney's own county, Dutchess, insuring the Resnick win with a heavy Democratic vote.

Dwight Lane, Schoharie County chairman, responding to the question whether the county organizations were "reluctantly" supporting Fish because of his loss two years ago and because no stronger candidate had to come to the fore, said, "There was no reluctance on my part; I was for him all the way."

Albert F. Callan of Columbia and Greene County's Neal Brandow claimed that there was never any such reluctance to again support the Fish bid for Congress and declared that the upcoming Liddy battle was without much substance.

Ulster County Chairman John B. Sterley said that there would "probably be a fight, but Ham Fish will definitely come out ahead."

Sterley also said, "It wouldn't surprise me if Congressman Resnick ran again."

Fish himself, however, doubted whether the second term Democrat would again seek the post.

"According to my information, Joe is firmly committed to the (U.S.) Senate race and he will not attempt the congressional race now."

There was some speculation whether Resnick, should he lose out on his Senate bid, might run for Congress two years from now.

Rockefeller Talk

Representatives from the five counties of the 28th—Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Schoharie and Ulster—appeared confident with the Fish endorsement, but much of their talk centered around Governor Rockefeller's withdrawal from the GOP Presidential nomination, and a meeting was scheduled right after the dinner to discuss the implications of the Governor's action.

There did not appear to be much hope among the leaders that the 59-year-old Republican Governor would be drafted by the national convention.

It was Brandow, chairman of the five-county GOP congressional committee, who declared, "It was unanimous that this committee nominate Hamilton Fish Jr. for Congress, and I don't care whether Joe Resnick or Joe Blow runs against him."

Speaking to party leaders, guests and newsmen, Fish said, "It's hard to show what this night means to me. I'm very proud to be your candidate."

He said that he had been in the nation's capital recently and "got that feeling of excitement of making workable effective legislation."

Critical of Resnick

Fish stated that he felt Congressman Resnick did not particularly care for his work in the House of Representatives, a fact the Millbrook attorney believed was projected in his "poor attendance record."

"I can promise you everything I have in this campaign—my wealth and my health."

He also claimed that he would go "door to door" in his bid to capture the congressional seat.

209, Other Area Crashes As We're Cloaked in Fog

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Dense fog and rain blended to reduce visibility on highways to a low mark, in the mid-Hudson Valley, produced worse conditions in the New York City area and caused hazardous driving conditions in most parts through the night and early today.

Several traffic accidents were investigated by State and local authorities, including two personal injury mishaps which occurred on Route 209.

A spokesman at the Federal Flight Service Station at Dutchess County Airport in New Hackensack reported poor flying conditions prevailed all day Thursday and continued through the night with visibility early this morning reduced to one-sixteenth of a mile. He said the weather was flyable in and out of the airport after daybreak but flying conditions generally were poor.

Three men were injured and another narrowly escaped injury at 12:30 a. m. today when the car in which they were riding failed to negotiate a left curve on Route 209 in the Town of Marbletown. The injured were taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance Service.

Troopers Patrick Sheehan and Craig Bremer of the Kingston State Police, reported James Shultis, 34, of Ulster Park, was driving north on Route 209 when the vehicle failed to make a curve, spun around and veered off the highway. The rear of the car hit a tree and overturned.

Passengers in the vehicle who were injured were Edward Murdock, 23, of Port Ewen, who sustained lacerations of the face and bruises; Julian Travis, 45, of Port Ewen, fractured ribs, and Edward Clark, 23, also of Port Ewen, who suffered scalp lacerations and a possible cerebral concussion. Shultis claimed no injuries.

Two traffic accidents investigated by Ellenville State Trooper Walter E. Hubert last night resulted in the arrest of two drivers on charges of driving while intoxicated and injuries to a 19-year-old youth.

Trooper Francis Steiner said Albert Anderson, 48, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was driving a tractor-trailer south on Route 209 near Napanoch when a northbound car driven by Ethel Clark, 55, of Kerhonkson, side-swiped the side of the truck, crossed the highway and came to stop in a field. The woman was charged with drunken driving and will appear before Wawarsing Town Justice Herbert Weissoff at a later date.

At 9:10 p. m. Ronald Kelly, 19, of Kerhonkson, was driving his car west on the Pataunkunk Road, Town of Rochester, when the vehicle went out of control and hit a utility pole. Kelly was treated at Ellenville Community Hospital for lacerations of the face and later Trooper Hubert cited him for driving while intoxicated and having unsafe tires on his car. The summons is returnable before Rochester Town Justice Abram D. Smith.

Four persons, including an infant, were injured, two seriously as the aftermath of a head-on collision which occurred at 7:30 p. m. yesterday on Route 52 near the Walden village line, according to Newburgh State Trooper R. S. McDowell.

The cars were driven by Douglas Comstock, 26, and Herbert Beach, 31, both of Walden. Comstock, troopers said, was driving east on the highway and Beach was traveling west when the crash occurred.

Comstock suffered a cerebral concussion, Beach received a fracture of the left kneecap and cuts of the right eyelid. Passengers in his car injured were Nancy Beach, 16, who sustained a fracture of the right arm and lacerations of the scalp, and 9-month-old Roger Beach who was treated for a cerebral concussion at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh where all the injured persons were taken for treatment.

Trooper Francis Steiner said Albert Anderson, 48, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was driving a tractor-trailer south on Route 209 near Napanoch when a northbound car driven by Ethel Clark, 55, of Kerhonkson, side-swiped the side of the truck, crossed the highway and came to stop in a field. The woman was charged with drunken driving and will appear before Wappington Town Justice Herbert Weissert at a later date.

At 9:10 p. m. Ronald Kelly, 19, of Kerhonkson, was driving his car west on the Pataunkunk Road, Town of Rochester, when the vehicle went out of control and hit a utility pole. Kelly was treated at Ellenville Community Hospital for lacerations of the face and later Trooper Hubert cited him for driving while intoxicated and having unsafe tires on his car. The summons is returnable before Rochester Town Justice Abram D. Smith.

Four persons, including an infant, were injured, two seriously as the aftermath of a head-on collision which occurred at 7:30 p. m. yesterday on Route 52 near the Walden village line, according to Newburgh State Trooper R. S. McDowell.

The cars were driven by Douglas Comstock, 26, and Herbert Beach, 51, both of Walden. Comstock, troopers said, was driving east on the highway and Beach was traveling west when the crash occurred.

Comstock suffered a cerebral concussion, Beach received a fracture of the left kneecap and cuts of the right eyelid. Passengers in his car injured were Nancy Beach, 16, who sustained a fracture of the right arm and lacerations of the scalp, and 9-month-old Roger Beach who was treated for a cerebral concussion at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh where all the injured persons were taken for treatment.

By ALBERT CAWEIN

A new multi-engine air service for cargo and passengers will begin in this area about May 1, based at Aero Lake Airport, Port Ewen.

Major Frank H. Bloom of Saugerties, representing Mountain-Aire Inc., said the firm plans for three daily flights to the greater New York area and a commuter service between Kingston and New York City airports is being planned.

About May 1
Major Bloom, a veteran of both the Korean Conflict and Vietnam, said if the planes ordered arrive the service will begin about May 1. Two Beech 18 multi-engine craft capable of carrying nine passengers and crew in a separate compartment have been ordered, he said.

The firm will have available a Skymaster for light cargo and charter flights.

Mountain-Aire is currently conducting a questionnaire survey to determine what types of service are required by local businesses, industry and individuals.

The questionnaire asks if there is a need in the area for the following services:

All weather, scheduled, commuter flights to the metropolitan areas where cost is low and Special tour flights for athletic events, commercial exhibits, civic meetings, conventions, or Broadway musical shows.

Freight service for loads up to a ton capacity.

Income for Charity
Charter travel by groups for civic purposes where a profit on full utilization of an aircraft could be divided yielding part of the net income to the organization or charity of your choice.

Hoderath Will Decline School Board Reelection

With the annual school election in the Kingston School District Consolidated established for Tuesday, May 7, it was learned today that Hubert Hoderath, of 120 West O'Reilly Street, an incumbent member of the Board of Education, will not be a candidate for re-election.

Hoderath and Sam S. Pepper were both endorsed by the Non-Partisan Nominating Committee as candidates for election to the school board in 1963. Pepper previously retired as a board member because of business expansion.

The decision of Hoderath will leave one vacancy on the board to be filled at the election in May.

In addition to voting for a school district trustee, voters of the district also will approve or reject a proposition to be included on the ballot which reads:

"That the existing constitutional tax limitation of 1.75 per cent on the amount to be raised by tax on real estate in the City School District of the City of Kingston, in any fiscal year be increased to 2 per cent."

Hoderath, a retired Kingston school teacher, told a reporter that during his almost five years on the board, he has enjoyed working with the other school trustees, the administration and the public, but he has chosen not to seek election for another five-year term.

On Several Committees
During his term in office, Hoderath has served on several of the important committees and is presently chairman of the building committee. He also is currently a member of the personnel and the public relations committee.

Three new schools have been built while Hoderath has been in office. The John F. Kennedy and the Harry L. Edson elementary schools have been in use for some time, and it is expected, barring any unforeseen delay, that the new M. Clifford Miller Junior High School will be ready for occupancy early in July. A fourth school, the Zena Elementary School, is also planned, although court actions have delayed indefinitely the start of construction on that building project.

Hodie, as he is familiarly known, began his teaching career which lasted 36 years until retirement, in a room in the vocational building which was heated by two pot-bellied stoves during his first teaching assignment in 1923. Amusingly, he recalls that his duties included "tending the fires."

Was Acting Principal
Later he was appointed director of Vocational and Adult Education and acting principal of the Kingston High School. His educational training and background includes studies at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn and at the Buffalo Normal School. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Albany State Teachers College.

After his election as a board member in 1963, Hoderath served as chairman of the Rules and Physical Education Committees. He is past president of Kingston Kiwanis Club, former lieutenant-governor of the Hudson River Division of Kiwanis International and served as a trustee of the Home for the Aged. He also is a member of the Photographers Society of America.

Savago (24), Bell (14) Votes From Kingston City Delegates

With the Republican delegation from the City of Kingston giving Peter J. Savago 24 votes and H. Clark Bell 14 votes, the outcome of the state assembly nomination is still much in doubt and Republicans continue to see the contest as "a horse race."

There could be no doubt, however, that many GOPers were surprised at the outcome of the city's vote, for many had assumed that the chairman of the county legislature, Savago, would command much more of a majority.

There are still eight more votes to be counted and both Savago and Bell partisans claim a majority of them.

An unofficial Freeman count now has Bell leading Savago by two votes. Bell appears to have 101 announced votes to Savago's 99.

The 37-year-old Savago has the unanimous support of the delegations from Denning (4), Gardiner (4), New Paltz (16), Plattekill (6), Shawangunk (8), and Wawarsing (20). He also has 6 votes from Lloyd, 11 votes from Saugerties, and the 24 Kingston votes. Total—99.

The 34-year-old former State Constitutional Convention delegate from Woodstock received the unanimity of the delegations from Hardenbergh (4), Hurley (12), Town of Kingston (2), Marletown (8), Olive (6), Rochester (8), Ulster (20), and Woodstock (8). He also has 6 Lloyd votes, 13 from Saugerties and Kingston's 14. Total—101.

The fight was brought more sharply into focus yesterday with the withdrawal of insurance man Lawrence A. Quilty from the assembly race.

Quilty was one of four announced candidates seeking the post now held by outgoing Kenneth L. Wilson. Savago was the first to announce, Bell followed, then William D. Brinnier of Saugerties and, finally, Quilty. Brinnier withdrew last week without having collected a single announced delegate vote. Quilty had not gathered an announced vote either.

In his withdrawal statement to John Ray Mayone, GOP city chairman, Quilty stated, "I wish to thank all of the committeemen for the support they gave me, and I am grateful for the opportunity I had to meet them."

"The Republican Party is fortunate that they have more than one qualified person seeking this position," Quilty concluded. It was learned that the Town of Esopus Republican Club, meeting last night, endorsed the Savago candidacy. The 14-member Esopus unofficial convention delegation will meet tonight to decide between the two contenders.

DOCTORS DECIDE — A panel of three doctors and four teenagers discussed the many aspects of cigarette smoking at an open meeting moderated by Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, center, at Saugerties High School last night. The three medical men told of their conviction that no one is truly addicted to cigarette smoking and "There is no one who cannot stop smoking." Left is Michael Harder, student; Dr. David Gerbang, Arnold, Dr. Gerald P. Gorman and Dr. Jacob Moss. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Sixth Suspect Is Arrested In Fallsburgh Bottling Burglary

A sixth arrest in the Fallsburgh Bottling Company burglary investigation was made Thursday when Frank W. Williams, 17, of DuBois Street, city, was arraigned before Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly on a charge of burglary, third degree.

Justice Reilly ordered the youth committed to county jail in lieu of $500 bail pending a preliminary hearing Wednesday at 3 p.m.

Young Williams was arrested in the Town of Ulster Thursday night by Sheriff William B. Martin, Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's office and State Police Senior Investigator Edward Shannon of the BCI.

Authorities said a gang of youths forced entry in the Albany Avenue Extension beverage plant and took 12 cases of beer for a party staged at the railroad yard in Connelly. After the party, two of the youths reportedly took a station wagon owned by Shirley Coundes of Connelly.

After a high-speed chase through the Town of Ulster to the High Woods area in Saugerties the two lost control and smashed into a tree.

Sheriff's Deputy Gerald Miller, who had been pursuing the two, booked William Pendell, 20, of Franklin Street, and Michael R. Mentessi, 17, of Adams Street, on unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Both were injured in the crash and taken to Kingston Hospital.

Later Pendell, Mentessi and three others were charged with grand larceny, third degree, in connection with the theft at the bottling company plant.

Question: To Smoke or Not to Smoke?

By LYNN MULVANEY

A few popular arguments for cigarette use went up in smoke last night at a conference on smoking and health conducted by doctors and students at Saugerties High School.

Filters?—All you get is a filtered cancer, quipped Dr. David Gerbang, quoting a cancer expert on the subject.

Pills to break the habit?—"I know of no aid to break the habit," said Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, adding that cigarettes are not addictive. Doctors Gorman, Gerbang and Jacob Moss agreed. "There is no one who cannot stop smoking."

The students, three of whom are non-smokers, the fourth having smoked at times, exploded a few theories too. They pointed out that in high school, where smoking used to be heaviest, the interest has dwindled somewhat with junior high school students taking up the slack by beginning the habit in seventh and eighth grades.

Suggest Scare Tactics

When asked what adults might do to impress students with the dangers of smoking, both Michael Harder and Carl John said they thought "scare" tactics might work best. They suggested that films depicting the ugly ravishes of cancer on the lung and photos of surgical patients whose cancerous jaws had been removed might turn the trick.

The student's contention was backed by the doctors who told of having witnessed "horrible" deaths from lung cancer. Cautioning the audience on cigarette related cancer, pulmonary and heart diseases, Dr. Moss advised "the smoker is on a collision course with agonizing death."

The panel was moderated by Dr. Dexter Otis Arnold, superintendent of schools, who traced the history of cigarette smoking and pointed out that the economic welfare of 17 million people in the cigarette-related industries are affected by the nation's smoking habits. He encouraged educational programs to enlighten the public further saying that in this case, "What you don't know will hurt you."

Not Impressed

The two girl panelists, Sheryl Bond and Helen Zeigler, said that about half of their acquaintances in high school smoke. They volunteered that they were "not impressed" by those who smoked.

Young Harder said that too much emphasis is being placed on cigarette smoking being the "in" thing to do. "It is simply not true," he said. Smoking, after awhile becomes second nature. It is something to do rather than merely a tool to impress.

The doctors brought many recent and significant facts to light such as:

—Cancer of the lungs is increasing in the female. It is second only to cancer of the breast.

—The incidence of heart disease in men who smoke is five times greater than non-smokers.

—In the treatment of lung cancer, Dr. Gorman states "we are doing well by saving three or four persons out of 100 in five years. Ninety six or seven are 'categorically' dead from the time diagnosis is made."

—Patient discovered to have inoperable lung cancer will be dead within eight to ten months.

—A person who stops smoking can expect his lungs to return to normal in six months to two years.

A change of environment or ritual will greatly aid the person who wishes to stop smoking. The doctors pointed out that hospitalized patients find it easier to stop than those patients carrying on their daily routine at home and work.

Arnold, center, at Saugerties High School last night. The three medical men told of their conviction that no one is truly addicted to cigarette smoking and "There is no one who cannot stop smoking." Sixth Suspect Is Arrested In Fallsburgh Bottling Burglary

A sixth arrest in the Fallsburgh Bottling Company burglary investigation was made Thursday when Frank W. Williams, 17, of DuBois Street, city, was arraigned before Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly on a charge of burglary, third degree.

Justice Reilly ordered the youth committed to county jail in lieu of $500 bail pending a preliminary hearing Wednesday at 3 p.m.

Young Williams was arrested in the Town of Ulster Thursday night by Sheriff William B. Martin, Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's office and State Police Senior Investigator Edward Shannon of the BCI.

Authorities said a gang of youths forced entry in the Albany Avenue Extension beverage plant and took 12 cases of beer for a party staged at the railroad yard in Connelly. After the party, two of the youths reportedly took a station wagon owned by Shirley Coundes of Connelly.

After a high-speed chase through the Town of Ulster to the High Woods area in Saugerties the two lost control and smashed into a tree.

Sheriff's Deputy Gerald Miller, who had been pursuing the two, booked William Pendell, 20, of Franklin Street, and Michael R. Mentessi, 17, of Adams Street, on unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Both were injured in the crash and taken to Kingston Hospital.

Later Pendell, Mentessi and three others were charged with grand larceny, third degree, in connection with the theft at the bottling company plant.

Stephen J. Stokes, 17, of Furnace Street, and Robert J. Perry, 18, of Route 4, Saugerties, were found guilty of criminal trespass, third degree, before Justice Reilly.

They were termed youthful offenders, given a one-year suspended jail sentence, and permitted to make full restitution.

Stokes, absent without leave, was returned to the Army and Perry reportedly has been accepted in the U. S. Navy.

Pendell and Ernest C. Bodie, 21, of Hunter Street, are also being held in county jail pending the hearing before Justice Reilly Wednesday at 3 p.m.

Mentessi will be arraigned as soon as he is released by the hospital.

In addition to Sheriff Martin and Investigator Bowers, State Police BCI Investigator Joseph Franke assisted in the arrest and investigation.

America's Close Call

The two-price gold decision was a close call for this country. Without it, our last remaining gold hoard could have disappeared in short order at the rate that world speculators were drawing on it. Now, they have a free gold market where they can buy and sell, while the industrial governments led by the United States keep their combined pile of gold, valued at $39 billion, strictly for government-to-government exchange within themselves.

The value of the dollar, the pound, the mark, the lira, the guilder, and Belgian and Swiss and Luxembourg francs will be protected by an interchange of currencies among the defending industrial nations. They have enough gold between them to support the dollar, on which the stability of their own currencies rest, now that the gold pool is exempt from attacks either from speculators or governments that are not members of the pool.

The arrangement gives the gold pool nations a time to complete an arrangement that had begun even before the gold crisis. Called "Paper Gold," it is the creation of a global monetary unit under which the 107 members of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) will be given "special drawing rights" (SDR) to draw money from the IMF for settling international payments.

Since SDR will be backed by the massed credit of all industrial nations, the new paper gold should bear the same value as gold itself. This unit had been under discussion for some time, but now the timetable for introducing it is being sped to relieve the industrial nations of the gold drain. Since it needs legislative confirmation, it is still at least a year away.

The whole crisis should be a lesson to this country. We now know there are limitations even on our great economy. We must tailor our government spending to our income, not continually run deficits. We must choose between higher taxes and largesse. We can't clean the barrel without replenishing it.

Changing Immigration

Come July 1, the national origins quota system of immigration will end. No longer will English, Irish, Dutch and German immigrants get preferential treatment. More Italians, Greeks, Portuguese, Chinese and Philipinos can be admitted.

The national origins systems sought to preserve the ratio of ethnic origins here. Higher percentages were allotted to nationals of countries already represented here in accordance with their proportion of our population. This system was revised in October, 1965, when any unused quotas were assigned to a pool from which potential immigrants from all nations could be drawn. Thus immigration distribution was wider.

The next revision, July 1, will do away with national quotas but set up quotas by hemispheres. First come, first served, by hemisphere, then. Preference will be given to relatives of those already here and also to those with skills needed in this country.

In a nation of 200 million people, there is no longer any fear that the limited immigration now entering the country cannot be absorbed whatever its origin. Nonetheless, there is agitation that the traditional sources of immigrations—countries with old cultural, political and economic bonds with the United States—are being discriminated against. The Irish are lobbying to restore their preference. Any who feel the same way can let their Congressmen know. It is a matter of personal choice.

Welfare Aid Cuts

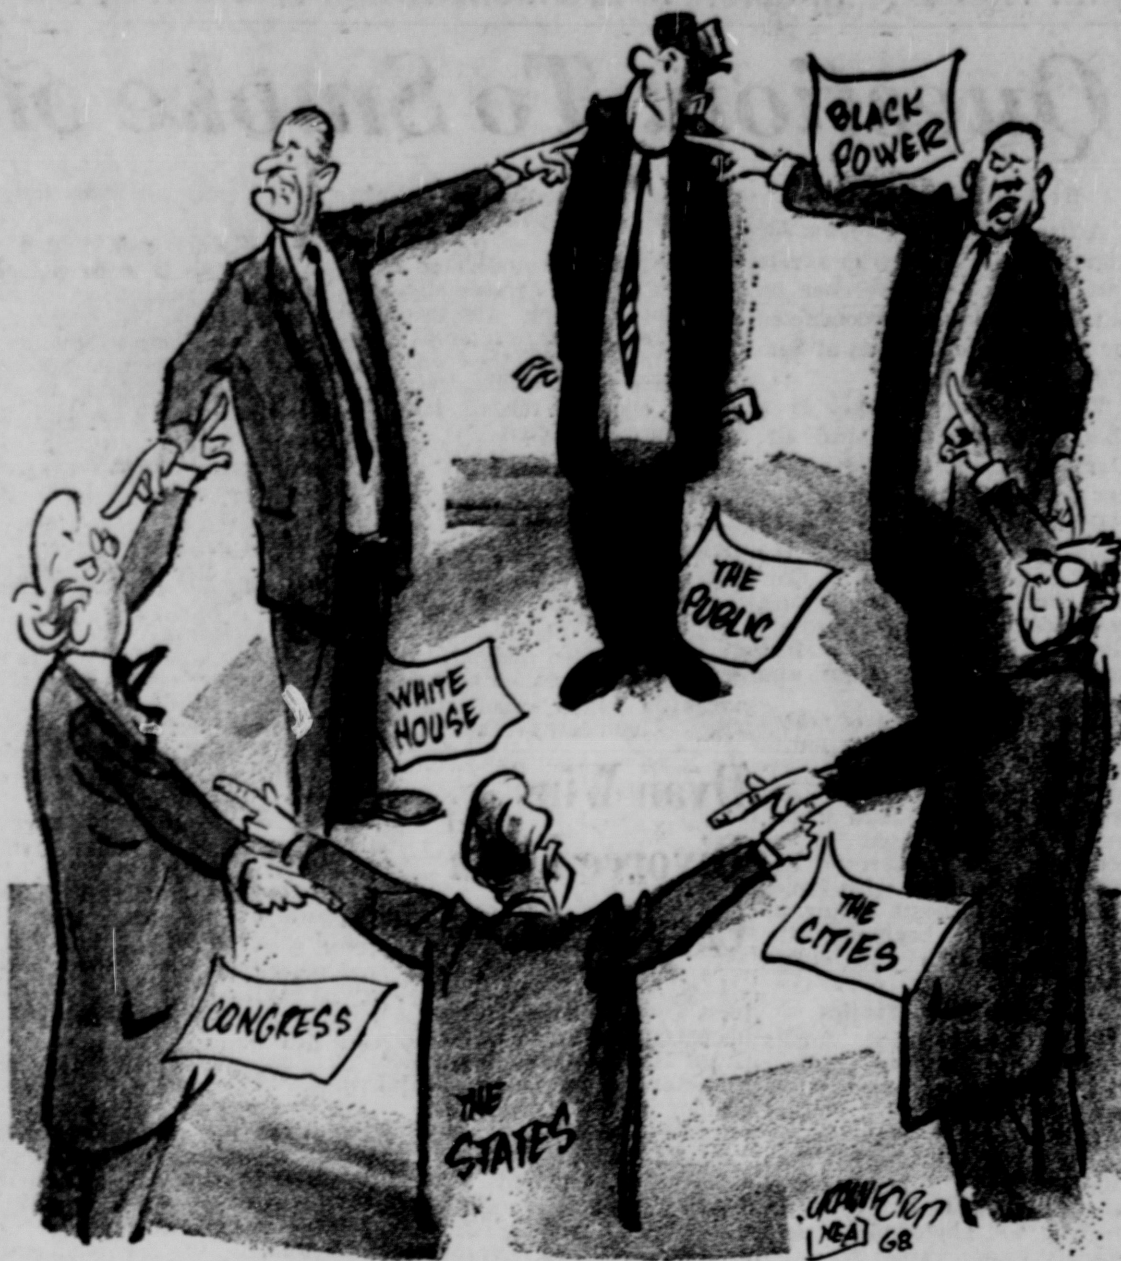

Recent Federal and state cuts in welfare funds have aroused the city mayors and administrators who find they are bound by state laws to make welfare payments out of funds they no longer have in abundance. It is a sorry situation for welfare clients, who are caught between this squeeze.

Yet from Washington, state capitals and city halls, the spenders talk not of how to find substitutes for welfare payments—jobs and training—but rather how to squeeze out more money from revenues spread thin. There is little realization that we have spent beyond our abilities.

The lesson of gold crisis has not sunk into government on all levels. These spenders must learn that we cannot continue to enjoy the most lavish domestic consumption in the world's history by continuing to pay for it in deficits. A foreign shooting war and a war on poverty cannot be conducted hand in hand without raising taxes to pay for them.

Perhaps the gold crisis will wake people up to the fact that the American dollar is not inexhaustible. If it does, the trial and worry will not have been in vain.

A court has begun to inquire into the sanctity, charity and other virtues displayed by Pope John XXIII as the first step toward raising him to sainthood. It would be as popular a move among non-Christians and even atheists as among the Catholics over whom he reigned.

"Who's Responsible for the Ghettos?"

David Lawrence Says

Communists Instigate April 26 Disorders

WASHINGTON — The Communists have again been revealed as instigators of many of the "demonstrations" inside the United States. Representative Edwin E. Willis, Democrat of Louisiana, who is chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, declares that his investigators have obtained documented proof of this. He says that the ten days of coming "demonstrations"—including student strikes at colleges and high schools across the country on April 26 and mass disruptions here and abroad on April 27—are part of a worldwide movement by the Communists.

Mr. Willis, in his speech on Tuesday to the House of Representatives, asserts that Communists organized a group of "black militant extremists" and allotted to them 50 per cent of the voting power at the Chicago conference in January, when plans were made for the "strike" in April. He adds:

"The student strike and mass actions day — April 27, 1968 — will be the Communist-run vehicles of irrepressible dissent and internal disruption within the United States. This dissent and disruption is designed to benefit the North Vietnamese enemy and the world Communist movement in general by undermining public support of the present U. S. policy of resisting Communist aggression in South Vietnam."

"Communists organizations, the Communist press, Communist fronts and individual Communists have drawn together under the banner of the Student Mobilization Committee in a united front. The primary objective of this united front is to defeat American determination of continued support for U. S. policy in Vietnam."

The Communists have as their objective to depict the United States government as "imperialistic." Efforts are being made also to exploit the current racial tensions in the United States by blaming the federal government for "diverting" money to fight the war in Vietnam, instead of using it in the battle against poverty in this country.

Mr. Willis predicts that if the Communists are successful in getting a significant number of college and high school students to strike and subsequently to take part in the "international mass actions," then the worldwide network of communist propaganda will use the incidents in this country as well as in other lands to create a widespread public demand for the reversal of American foreign policy. The purpose, of course, is to strengthen the cause of communism throughout the world by pointing out that inside the United States a substantial number of persons associated with the communist party will have dampened the resolution of America and its allies in the Vietnam war.

This is not the first time the House committee on Un-American activities has shown the communists inside the United States to be closely related to many of the "demonstrations" that have swept America in the last two years. While controversies of a racial nature have erupted spontaneously in many instances, the communists have been quick to take advantage of such episodes to spread disorder and to try to mobilize public sentiment behind their aims.

Oddly enough, in the report recently issued by the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, no mention was made of the communist influence which has found its way into many American cities and helped either to instigate disorders or to organize "demonstrations" that provoked violence.

Congress has not yet passed any legislation dealing directly with the riots. There is a considerable sentiment in both houses in favor of the enactment of laws to punish those persons who incite disturbances. But nothing has been accomplished because the legislation itself is stalemated in the House of Representatives due to a wide difference of opinion on such questions as "open housing."

There are many lawyers who feel that existing federal statutes dealing with treason and sedition are adequate to bring about the prosecution of individuals who by their acts give "aid and comfort" to the enemy. The Department of Justice, however, has been reluctant to take such steps. Some members of Congress, on the other hand, feel that the government should not wait until after the April "demonstrations" and disorders to expose the communists who have participated in the arrangements for the forthcoming "strike."

Drew Pearson Says Greek Dictatorship Receives Windfall of U.S. Dollars

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration's apparent love of the military was highlighted last week in the middle of the gold crisis when George F. Woods, president of the World Bank, OK'd a $12.5 million loan to the Greek military dictatorship.

This was on the same day that trading in gold reached such a frenzied peak that the London gold market was ordered shut down.

The loan could not have been made without the blessing of the United States, and it meant an export of precious dollars at a time when we were supposed to be nursing dollars.

Mr. Woods, who shortly steps down as World Bank president to be succeeded by ex-Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, OK'd the loan to the Greek military one day after receiving a strong protest from Andreas Papanastasiou, former University of Minnesota and California professor and exiled cabinet member in his father's Center Union government. This was the largest political party in Greece when the Greek colonels stepped in to throw out parliamentary rule. Andreas has been in jail most of the time since.

For some strange reason the Greek dictatorship has enjoyed special concessions from the Johnson administration. It and Finland are the only two countries to be exempted from the ban on U. S. investments abroad. The position of democratic Finland is understandable because it has religiously paid its war debts to the United States.

The special favoritism given the Greek dictatorship is explained by some diplomats as resulting from the fact that Tex Thornton, chairman of Litton Industries and a friend of LBJ's, has a contract with the Greek military to send American industry to Greece on a commission basis.

Obviously, no American industry can invest in Greece if there is a ban on the shipment of dollars abroad; so Litton was able to wrangle an exemption from this ban. Dan Brewster, in charge of the State Department's Greek desk and very pro-military, is also given credit for the loan.

Significantly, the European Investment Bank, which was supposed to advance $8 million, refused to go along with the World Bank.

The loan will be administered in part by Dr. Constantinos Thanos, deputy governor of the Bank of Greece, recently exposed for plagiarizing the thesis which won him his doctor's degree from Columbia University. This column reported Oct. 6, 1967, that Thanos had plagiarized his thesis from Dr. J. A. Galbraith of McGill University in Toronto. The Toronto Globe and Mail of March 5 reported that Columbia University will shortly remove the doctor's degree which Thanos received under false pretenses.

Note: The Greek Embassy public relations machine has been busy writing letters to editors in opposition to critical newspaper columns. It even contacted prominent Greek-Americans in California asking that they deluge Rep. Don Edwards of San Jose with 100 letters because he had spoken out against the Greek dictatorship. For a foreign embassy to influence American politics is a violation of international law. It will be interesting to see what, if anything, Dan Brewster of the State Department does about this Greek intrusion.

sion into American politics.

Two "No" Senators

Thousands of newspaper columns have been written regarding the Gulf of Tonkin resolution and the fact that many Senators now regret rushing it through with little debate, thereby giving the Johnson administration an official stamp of approval for the war in Vietnam.

Almost nothing has been written, however, about the two Senators who refused to be rushed into the war vote—Wayne Morse of Oregon and Ernest Gruening of Alaska, both Democrats.

It's now clearly demonstrated by secret messages changed between the commander of the USS Maddox in the Gulf of Tonkin and the Pentagon in Washington that he was not at all sure he had been attacked. Yet the Senate, acting on false information, rushed up to it by the Pentagon, voted overwhelmingly that there had been an act of aggression against the United States. Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has now publicly expressed his regret for the haste and apologized to the American people.

The two Senators who owe no apology for voting "no" have had a consistent record for opposing war; so consistent that their no votes and speeches are no longer considered news and are played down by the press wire services.

Senator Morse, while consistently opposing President Johnson on Vietnam, has battled valiantly for the President as a labor mediator in five vitally important strikes, which has won him the bitter opposition of the Machinists' Union.

Senator Gruening, the father of Alaskan statehood, first proposed that the United States get out of Vietnam on March 10, 1964, six months before the Tonkin resolution. He has been consistent ever since. His latest proposal is that draftees not be required to fight in Vietnam, since there has been no declaration of war against North Vietnam. Protesting draftees could serve in the armed services elsewhere. Those who enlist, plus draftees who are willing to go, Senator Gruening argues, would supply enough troops for the "illegal" war.

Egyptian Communists

CIA reports that Arab Communists and Moslem fanatics, though at opposite extremes of the political spectrum, have joined forces to threaten the stability of the Egyptian government. The CIA report warned that a communist takeover of Egypt was a distinct possibility within the next three years. The communists, for example, have been exploiting the trials of army officers in order to undermine public faith in the regime.

Bobby Kennedy in Kansas

Bobby Kennedy made a terrific impact on Kansas students and politicians, but when all the shouting was over, it looked as if he hadn't picked up any delegates to win him the Presidential nomination.

Though Sen. Kennedy's crowds at Kansas State and the University of Kansas were the biggest in their history, the most important part of his delegate-hunting trip took place in the mansion of Gov. Robert Docking Sunday night.

Docking, third Democrat to serve as governor in rock-ribbed Republican Kansas in the past 95 years, is thinking seriously of running for the Senate for the seat left vacant by retiring Republican Frank Carlson.

Docking and Bobby Kennedy discussed this, and Bobby expressed the hope that Docking would come to Washington. "You will be a great addition to the Senate," he said.

The two men skirted around the general question of delegates but never got down to brass tacks. Bobby knew that Docking was already pledged to Johnson and that four out of five district conventions had already picked their Democratic delegates to the Chicago convention. While these are officially uncommitted, actually they are expected to follow Gov. Docking's lead.

Bobby asked Docking how the political situation was over the country, and asked his advice on what the governor would do if he were in Bobby's shoes. There were other polite sallies; nothing concrete.

Bobby had the buttons on his coat and shirt torn off, and also lost his cufflinks, in the melee with Kansas Students; so Mrs. Scott Carpenter, wife of the astronaut, wearing a Hawaiian housecoat, interrupted making cheese sandwiches in the kitchen to repair the damage.

Mrs. Carpenter accompanied the Kennedys on the Kansas junket as a friend and sort of glorified lady-in-waiting to Ethel.

About midnight the Kennedys went upstairs to bed. They had to be up at 6 a. m. for a TV interview in the governor's mansion. After they had retired, Kansas Democratic friends of Gov. Docking discussed the Kennedy-Johnson-McCarthy cleavage in the Democratic party until 1 a. m. Those who did the discussing included Democratic State Chairman Norbert Dreiling; National Committeeman Tom Corcoran; Paul Frenders, assistant to the governor; President of the Young Democrats Terry Watson, who is also on the governor's staff; John Montgomery, Kansas highway director; and Vincent Bogart, ex-mayor of Wichita and assistant to the governor on legislation. It was their consensus that Bobby Kennedy had scored some major points regarding the war in Vietnam. He couldn't be blamed for the war, and he could blame Johnson, which he effectively did. They also agreed that Bobby had won the students but on the other hand not many of the students can vote.

When it comes to real delegate strength, the Kansas Democrats concluded, Johnson would get the Kansas vote at Chicago. The final decision comes March 30 when the Democratic delegates hold their state convention in Topeka. Gov. Docking indicated to his supporters that he would continue to advise them to be for Johnson.

After the Kennedys departed, Mrs. Docking's maid discovered that the Senator had left behind his shirt and socks while Mrs. Kennedy had forgotten to pack up her make-up box, bathrobe and her diamond and ruby bracelets. Mrs. Docking packed them up and drove to the special Kennedy plane just in time to deliver the jewels and laundry before Bobby and Ethel took off.

Smart Money Now Favors Kennedy Against Resnick

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) —

U. S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is about to demonstrate that he quietly but firmly has taken control of the Democratic organization in his adopted state.

In his life-or-death political struggle with President Johnson, Kennedy must show that he has a solid base of operations—that he can command the bulk of New York's 190-vote delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Kennedy detractors—and there are many rank-and-file Democrats who never have warmed to him—are frankly hoping that events will prove he has bitten off more than he can chew this time.

Some county leaders, in the party's upstate wind, are defying his leadership by siding with Johnson.

But prospects are that, when the chips are down, Kennedy will demonstrate that he is the overriding influence on Democratic affairs in this state.

When Kennedy first moved into the state four years ago, Robert F. Wagner, then mayor of New York, was the No. 1 Democrat. Wagner was trying to extend his sway, over the resistance of party leaders in such populous counties as Brooklyn, the Bronx, Westchester, Nassau and Erie.

They countered by inducing Kennedy to move in from Massachusetts and run for the Senate against Republican Kenneth B. Keating. Kennedy's victory strengthened their position and weakened Wagner's. The mayor subsequently bowed out of politics.

In the interval, however, Kennedy challenged Wagner's choice of Anthony J. Travia for the post of speaker of the State Assembly. Kennedy lost that fight but, since Wagner has left the scene, Kennedy has made peace with Travia.

Kennedy Picked Kennedy

Meanwhile, Kennedy installed his personal choice in the Democratic state chairmanship, John J. Burns. And he patched up relations with party leaders in what had been the Wagner strongholds of Manhattan and Queens.

Ten and Twenty

Years Ago

March 22, 1948—Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk returned to his office in city hall after many weeks of illness.

Ulster County reached $15,350 of its $34,000 Red Cross fund drive goal.

March 22, 1958 — Peter Keresman, secretary of the New York State Police Conference, was cited by the community service.

George Svirsky, chairman of the Lions Club Exposition, announced that there were 117 exhibits at this year's show.

Now, with his hat in the ring, Kennedy can look with satisfaction on his handiwork.

With Burns on the job, Kennedy has control of the state committee, the instrument and symbol of party authority. Burns says he is "100 per cent" behind Kennedy's presidential bid.

The big-county leaders who originally brought Kennedy into the state are still in his corner, plus those he later won over, and they can be expected to declare their support for him. The geographical areas they represent will produce most of the state's convention delegates.

Although party leaders in some of the smaller counties have proclaimed their loyalty to Johnson, others who might like to do the same may find that pressure from the big-county powers is too great. At this point, the outlook is that, in most of the state, the money and influence of the regular organization will be placed behind pro-Kennedy delegates in the June 18 primary.

U. S. Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, an anti-Kennedy Democrat seeking the U. S. Senate nomination, has threatened to organize and finance Johnson loyalist slates in every area where Kennedy may hold sway.

But the smart money right now is on Kennedy. He just seems to be too firmly entrenched to be dislodged by a Resnick.

White House Shows Increasing Indications of Political Vitality

By PETER LISAGOR

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19 — Despite his admiration for Franklin D. Roosevelt's political sagacity and shrewdness, President Johnson may find it risky to attempt to emulate F.D.R. in the next few months, according to political analysts here.

Mr. Johnson had hoped to follow the pattern of Roosevelt's 1940 campaign in which F.D.R. enveloped himself in the crises of the presidency and let others do his tough politicking in the nation's precincts.

But this L.B.J. cannot do, say the analysts. "And the signs now point to far greater political activity at the White House than perhaps the president himself thought conceivable before Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.) began his bitter challenge."

Mr. Johnson still expects Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and his politically-oriented cabinet officers to bear the brunt of the pre-convention campaigning. But off his wassend experience, it is clear that the presidential itinerary this spring will be arranged with the preferential primaries in mind.

Wherever there's a luncheon or dinner when the president's in flight, there you might get an unscheduled speaker," observes a Democratic functionary with some knowledge of L.B.J.'s travel habits. En route from Texas yesterday, he stopped at a farmer's union convention in Minneapolis.

Furthermore, it's noted here, Roosevelt in 1940 had no popular figures challenging his third-term ambitions, no unpopular war, and no racial tensions threatening the big cities. Nor did he have his name automatically entered on the primary ballots of three states, as Mr. Johnson does in Wisconsin, Nebraska, and Oregon.

Roosevelt stunned the Republicans in 1940 in the pre-convention period by naming two prominent GOP members to his cabinet. Henry L. Stimson as Secretary of War and Frank Knox as Secretary of the Navy. L.B.J. might try a similar move to heal the divisions over the Vietnam war, if he could find a pair of influential Republicans willing to enter his cabinet.

Until Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.) rocked the White House with his strong showing in New Hampshire's primary last week, the president and his associates acted as if politics was too sordid to engage his attention. The president felt that other priorities were far more demanding — the war, the budget, the attack on the dollar abroad, the cities — and his inclination was to stand aloof, to let others carry the political ball without his personal assent or direction.

Now all that appears to have changed, and the president's hand can be seen in the new flurry of activity. Agriculture Department spokesman, for example, called reporters yesterday to alert them to the fact that Sec. Orville Freeman was going to spend Thursday in Wisconsin, obviously campaigning for the president.

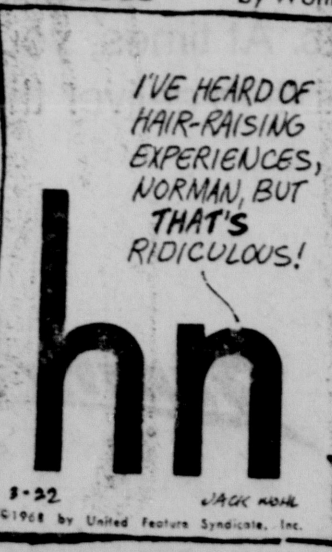

Humphrey will also go into the badger state before the Apr. 2 primary, not to mention other Cabinet officers and perhaps a governor or two. In a word, they have gotten the message that McCarthy could win in Wisconsin, and above-the-battle-politics is no longer wise for the administration.

But more than the New Hampshire surprise, it was Kennedy's defiant entry into the race that jolted the White House, and promised a bitter battle to obstruct L.B.J.'s re-nomination. In F.D.R.'s time, the president could save before the Democratic convention that the delegates were free to vote for another candidate, knowing full well that it would create enthusiastic support for himself.

Lyndon Johnson is not in that invidious position, and knows that if he intends to run again he has to make some moves to protect his flanks.

WASHINGTON — The Communists have again been revealed as instigators of many of the "demonstrations" inside the United States. Representative Edwin E. Willis, Democrat of Louisiana, who is chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, declares that his investigators have obtained documented proof of this. He says that the ten days of coming "demonstrations"—including student strikes at colleges and high schools across the country on April 26 and mass disruptions here and abroad on April 27—are part of a worldwide movement by the Communists.

Mr. Willis, in his speech on Tuesday to the House of Representatives, asserts that Communists organized a group of "black militant extremists" and allotted to them 50 per cent of the voting power at the Chicago conference in January, when plans were made for the "strike" in April. He adds: "The student strike and mass actions day—April 27, 1968—will be the Communist-run vehicle of irrepressible dissent and internal disruption within the United States. This dissent and disruption is designed to benefit the North Vietnamese enemy and the world Communist movement in general by undermining public support of the present U. S. policy of resisting Communist aggression in South Vietnam."

"Communists organizations, the Communist press, Communist fronts and individual Communists have drawn together under the banner of the Student Mobilization Committee in a united front. The primary objective of this united front is to defeat American determination of continued support for U. S. policy in Vietnam."

The Communists have as their objective to depict the United States government as "imperialistic." Efforts are being made also to exploit the current racial tensions in the United States by blaming the federal government for "diverting" money to fight the war in Vietnam, instead of using it in the battle against poverty in this country.

Mr. Willis predicts that if the Communists are successful in getting a significant number of college and high-school students to strike and subsequently to take part in the "international mass actions," then the worldwide network of communist propaganda will use the incidents in this country as well as in other lands to create a widespread public demand for the reversal of American foreign policy. The purpose, of course, is to strengthen the cause of communism throughout the world by pointing out that inside the United States a substantial number of persons associated with the Communist party will have dampened the resolution of America and its allies in the Vietnam war.

This is not the first time the House committee on Un-American Activities has shown the Communists inside the United States to be closely related to many of the "demonstrations" that have swept America in the last two years. While controversies of a racial nature have erupted spontaneously in many instances, the communists have been quick to take advantage of such episodes to spread disorder and to try to mobilize public sentiment behind their aims.

Oddly enough, in the report recently issued by the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, no mention was made of the communist influence which has found its way into many American cities and helped either to instigate disorders or to organize "demonstrations" that provoked violence.

Congress has not yet passed any legislation dealing directly with the riots. There is a considerable sentiment in both houses in favor of the enactment of laws to punish those persons who incite disturbances. But nothing has been accomplished because the legislation itself is stalemated in the House of Representatives due to a wide difference of opinion on such questions as "open housing."

There are many lawyers who feel that existing federal statutes dealing with treason and sedition are adequate to bring about the prosecution of individuals who by their acts give "aid and comfort" to the enemy. The Department of Justice, however, has been reluctant to take such steps. Some members of Congress, on the other hand, feel that the government should not wait until after the April "demonstrations" and disorders to expose the communists who have participated in the arrangements for the forthcoming "strike."

Drew Pearson Says
Greek Dictatorship Receives
Windfall of U.S. Dollars

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration's apparent love of the military was highlighted last week in the middle of the gold crisis when George F. Woods, president of the World Bank, OK'd a $12.5 million loan to the Greek military dictatorship.

This was on the same day that trading in gold reached such a frenzied peak that the London gold market was ordered shut down.

The loan could not have been made without the blessing of the United States, and it meant an export of precious dollars at a time when we were supposed to be nursing dollars.

Mr. Woods, who shortly steps down as World Bank president to be succeeded by ex-Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, OK'd the loan to the Greek military one day after receiving a strong protest from Andreas Papanastasiou, former University of Minnesota and California professor and exiled cabinet member in his father's Center Union government. This was the largest political party in Greece when the Greek colonels stepped in to throw out parliamentary rule. Andreas has been in jail most of the time since.

For some strange reason the Greek dictatorship has enjoyed special concessions from the Johnson administration. It and Finland are the only two countries to be exempted from the ban on U. S. investments abroad. The position of democratic Finland is understandable because it has religiously paid its war debts to the United States.

The special favoritism given the Greek dictatorship is explained by some diplomats as resulting from the fact that Tex Thornton, chairman of Litton Industries and a friend of LBJ's, has a contract with the Greek military to send American industry to Greece on a commission basis.

Obviously, no American industry can invest in Greece if there is a ban on the shipment of dollars abroad; so Litton was able to wrangle an exemption from this ban. Dan Brewster, in charge of the State Department's Greek desk and very pro-military, is also given credit for the loan. Significantly, the European Investment Bank, which was supposed to advance $8 million, refused to go along with the World Bank.

The loan will be administered in part by Dr. Constantine Thanos, deputy governor of the Bank of Greece, recently exposed for plagiarizing the thesis which won him his doctor's degree from Columbia University. This column reported Oct. 6, 1967, that Thanos had plagiarized his thesis from Dr. J. A. Galbraith of McGill University in Toronto. The Toronto Globe and Mail of March 5 reported that Columbia University will shortly remove the doctor's degree which Thanos received under false pretenses.

Note: The Greek Embassy public relations machine has been busy writing letters to editors in opposition to critical newspaper columns. It even contacted prominent Greek-Americans in California asking that they deluge Rep. Don Edwards of San Jose with 500 letters because he had spoken out against the Greek dictatorship. For a foreign embassy to influence American politics is a violation of international law. It will be interesting to see what, if anything, Dan Brewster of the State Department does about this Greek intrusion into American politics.

Two "No" Senators

Thousands of newspaper columns have been written regarding the Gulf of Tonkin resolution and the fact that many Senators now regret rushing it through with little debate, thereby giving the Johnson administration an official stamp of approval for the war in Vietnam.

Almost nothing has been written, however, about the two Senators who refused to be rushed into the war vote—Wayne Morse of Oregon and Ernest Gruening of Alaska, both Democrats.

It's now clearly demonstrated by secret messages exchanged between the commander of the USS Maddox in the Gulf of Tonkin and the Pentagon in Washington that he was not at all sure he had been attacked. Yet the Senate, acting on false information, rushed up to it by the Pentagon, voted overwhelmingly that there had been an act of aggression against the United States. Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has now publicly expressed his regret for the haste and apologized to the American people.

The two Senators who owe no apology for voting "no" have had a consistent record for opposing war; so consistent that their no votes and speeches are no longer considered news and are played down by the press wire services.

Senator Morse, while consistently opposing President Johnson on Vietnam, has battled valiantly for the President as a labor mediator in five vitally important strikes, which has won him the bitter opposition of the Machinists' Union.

Senator Gruening, the father of Alaskan statehood, first proposed that the United States get out of Vietnam on March 10, 1964, six months before the Tonkin resolution. He has been consistent ever since. His latest proposal is that draftees not be required to fight in Vietnam, since there has been no declaration of war against North Vietnam. Protesting draftees could serve in the armed services elsewhere. Those who enlist, plus draftees who are willing to go, Senator Gruening argues, would supply enough troops for the "illegal" war.

Egyptian Communists
CIA reports that Arab Communists and Moslem fanatics, though at opposite extremes of the political spectrum, have joined forces to threaten the stability of the Egyptian government. The CIA report warned that a communist takeover of Egypt was a distinct possibility within the next three years. The communists, for example, have been exploiting the trials of army officers in order to undermine public faith in the regime.

Bobby Kennedy in Kansas
Bobby Kennedy made a terrific impact on Kansas students and politicians, but when all the shouting was over, it looked as if he hadn't picked up any delegates to win him the Presidential nomination.

Though Sen. Kennedy's crowds at Kansas State and the University of Kansas were the biggest in their history, the most important part of his delegate-hunting trip took place in the mansion of Gov. Robert Docking Sunday night.

Docking, third Democrat to serve as governor in rock-ribbed Republican Kansas in the past 95 years, is thinking seriously of running for the Senate for the seat left vacant by retiring Republican Frank Carlson.

Docking and Bobby Kennedy discussed this, and Bobby expressed the hope that Docking would come to Washington. "You will be a great addition to the Senate," he said.

The two men skirted around the general question of delegates but never got down to brass tacks. Bobby knew that Docking was already pledged to Johnson and that four out of five district conventions had already picked their Democratic delegates to the Chicago convention. While these are officially uncommitted, actually they are expected to follow Gov. Docking's lead.

Bobby asked Docking how the political situation was over the country, and asked his advice on what the governor would do if he were in Bobby's shoes. There were other polite sallies; nothing concrete.

Bobby had the buttons on his coat and shirt torn off, and also lost his cufflinks, in the melee with Kansas Students; so Mrs. Scott Carpenter, wife of the astronaut, wearing a Hawaiian housecoat, interrupted making cheese sandwiches in the kitchen to repair the damage.

Mrs. Carpenter accompanied the Kennedys on the Kansas junket, as a friend and sort of glorified lady-in-waiting to Ethel.

About midnight the Kennedys went upstairs to bed. They had to be up at 6 a. m. for a TV interview in the governor's mansion. After they had retired, Kansas Democratic friends of Gov. Docking discussed the Kennedy-Johnson-McCarthy cleavage in the Democratic party until 1 a. m. Those who did the discussing included Democratic State Chairman Norbert Dreiling; National Committeeman Tom Corcoran; Paul Prendergast, assistant to the governor; President of the Young Democrats Terry Watson, who is also on the governor's staff; John Montgomery, Kansas highway director; and Vincent Bogart, ex-mayor of Wichita and assistant to the governor on legislation. It was their consensus that Bobby Kennedy had scored some major points regarding the war in Vietnam. He couldn't be blamed for the war, and he could blame Johnson, which he effectively did. They also agreed that Bobby had wowed the students, but on the other hand not many of the students can vote.

When it comes to real delegate strength, the Kansas Democrats concluded, Johnson would get the Kansas vote at Chicago. The final decision comes March 30 when the Democratic delegates hold their state convention in Topeka. Gov. Docking indicated to his supporters that he would continue to advise them to be for Johnson.

After the Kennedys departed, Mrs. Docking's maid discovered that the Senator had left behind his shirt and socks while Mrs. Kennedy had forgotten to pack up her make-up box, bathrobe and her diamond and ruby bracelets. Mrs. Docking packed them up and drove to the special Kennedy plane just in time to deliver the jewels and laundry before Bobby and Ethel took off.

Smart Money Now Favors
Kennedy Against Resnick

By CHARLES DUMAS
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — U. S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is about to demonstrate that he quietly but firmly has taken control of the Democratic organization in his adopted state.

In his life-or-death political struggle with President Johnson, Kennedy must show that he has a solid base of operations—that he can command the bulk of New York's 190-vote delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Kennedy detractors—and there are many rank-and-file Democrats who never warmed to him—were frankly hoping that events will prove he has bitten off more than he can chew this time.

Some county leaders, in the party's upstate wind, are defying his leadership by siding with Johnson.

But prospects are that, when the chips are down, Kennedy will demonstrate that he is the overriding influence on Democratic affairs in this state.

Here's the picture: When Kennedy first moved into the state four years ago, Robert F. Wagner, then mayor of New York, was the No. 1 Democrat. Wagner was trying to extend his sway, over the resistance of party leaders in such populous counties as Brooklyn, the Bronx, Westchester, Nassau and Erie.

They countered by inducing Kennedy to move in from Massachusetts and run for the Senate against Republican Kenneth B. Keating. Kennedy's victory strengthened their position and weakened Wagner's. The mayor subsequently bowed out of politics.

In the interval, however, Kennedy challenged Wagner's choice of Anthony J. Travia for the post of speaker of the State Assembly. Kennedy lost that fight but, since Wagner has left the scene, Kennedy has made peace with Travia.

Kennedy Picked Burns
Meanwhile, Kennedy installed his personal choice in the Democratic state chairmanship, John J. Burns. And he patched up relations with party leaders in what had been the Wagner strongholds of Manhattan and Queens.

Ten and Twenty Years Ago

March 22, 1948—Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk returned to his office in city hall after many weeks of illness.

Ulster County reached $15,350 of its $34,000 Red Cross fund drive goal.

March 22, 1958 — Peter Keresman, secretary of the New York State Police Conference, was cited by the community service.

George Svirsky, chairman of the Lions Club Exposition, announced that the event were 117 exhibits at this year's show.

Now, with his hat in the ring, Kennedy can look with satisfaction on his handiwork.

With Burns on the job, Kennedy has control of the state committee, the instrument and symbol of party authority. Burns says he is "100 per cent" behind Kennedy's presidential bid.

The big-county leaders who originally brought Kennedy into the state are still in his corner, plus those he later won over, and they can be expected to declare their support for him. The geographical areas they represent will produce most of the state's convention delegates.

Although party leaders in some of the smaller counties have proclaimed their loyalty to Johnson, others who might like to do the same may find that pressure from the big-county leaders is too great.

At this point, the outlook is that, in most of the state, the money and influence of the regular organization will be placed behind pro-Kennedy delegates in the June 18 primary.

U. S. Rep. Joseph V. Resnick, an anti-Kennedy Democrat seeking the U. S. Senate nomination, has threatened to organize and finance Johnson loyalist slates in every area where Kennedy men hold sway.

But the smart money right now is on Kennedy. He just seems to be too firmly entrenched to be dislodged by a Resnick.

The Pueblo Ship Seizure-- See No Immediate Release

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two months after North Korea's Jan. 23 seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo, the brink-of-war fever it generated has simmered down to a lingering diplomatic crisis.

American officials, who chose diplomacy instead of force, say they foresee no release of the vessel and her 82 surviving crewmen any time soon.

While two U.S. aircraft carriers stand by well off the Korean coast in the Sea of Japan, the antagonists now thrust and parry through spokesmen in secrecy-cloaked talks at Panmunjom.

North Korea demands a U.S. confession of criminal espionage inside Korean territorial waters and an apology for "hostile acts."

President Johnson has received a letter purportedly signed by the Pueblo's 82 surviving crewmen, saying a Washington apology is needed "before our repatriation can be realized." Now other letters in the same vein from individual crewmen are being received by their families.

The letters have been carrying the Communist charge that the Pueblo intruded within 7.6 miles of North Korean shores, inside the Reds' claimed 12-mile territorial limit. The U.S. government says it has positive electronic tracking proof that the ship was seized in international waters, 15.4 miles from the nearest Korean land.

The Reply

Washington's reply to Pyongyang has been: Return the crewmen and if their testimony shows any American violation of the U.S. government will take the appropriate action.

Representatives of the two sides met again Thursday at Panmunjom, this time for an hour. It was the 12th confrontation on the Pueblo at the Korean truce site and the State Department's report was as before: "No progress."

State Department authorities expect more talk, probably lots more, before North Korea seriously considers freeing the prisoners. They figure the Communists will try first to extract maximum propaganda mileage and concessions from the incident.

Nothing about the Pueblo's unspectacular past suggested she would wind up in North Korea's Wonsan Harbor in one of the U.S. Navy's unhappiest episodes, being the first federal warship captured at sea since the Confederates seized the Harriet Lane in 1862.

The Pueblo actually began its career with the Army late in World War II. Weighing in at only 905 tons—less than half a destroyer's size—the 179-foot vessel built at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., in 1944 put in a 10-year tour as a light Army cargo ship before its first retirement.

The Navy recommissioned the little vessel last May 13 at Bremerton, Wash., outfitting it with the latest electronic eavesdropping gear.

She was thus able to perform a wide range of intelligence work—from intercepting radio communications to spotting radar sites and charting ocean depths.

It was still no battleship. It carried only three .50-caliber machineguns, usually kept under canvass. Its top speed was 12.2 knots.

The new skipper was Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, 38, a Pocahontas, Idaho, native and Boys Town, Neb., graduate. It was his first command.

Bucher sailed off to his new home port—Yokosuka, Japan—and moved his family from Jefferson, Mo., to San Diego, Calif., where he had expected to return this spring.

What Happened?

Just what happened on the voyage which climaxed in international crisis is still obscured by official secrecy and the inability to get an undoctored account from the commander and his crew.

The Pueblo sailed into the Sea of Japan on Jan. 8 with 83 Americans aboard—Bucher and 5 other officers, 73 enlisted men; 2 Marines and 2 civilian hydrographic technicians.

Bucher's mission was intelligence collection. He was under instructions to stay at least 13 miles offshore and to maintain radio silence unless something happened to warrant a quick communication to headquarters.

The Pueblo's radio silence began Jan. 10 as it went about its task of intelligence-gathering off the Korean coast.

On Jan. 22 the Pueblo sighted two small North Korean boats, perhaps fishing vessels, at about 12:25 p.m. Korean time. The boats were around 10,000 yards away at the time. They closed to within about 30 yards of the Pueblo, then moved away. They were in the vicinity for a couple of hours all told.

The Pueblo broke radio silence to report this, although not very urgently. It did not get around to sending this message, the Pentagon says, until Jan. 23, shortly before the next incident.

Washington officials said the Pueblo was well outside the 12-mile limit during the Jan. 22 encounter, and that American intelligence ships often come under nonviolent harassment in the area. A sister electronic ferret ship, the Banner, had at one time in previous months been surrounded by 11 patrol boats for 2½ hours without being directly molested.

The next Pueblo message to its Japan headquarters, run by Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, was the start of the series which in 2½ hours told the U.S. government most of what it knows about the climactic action.

About noon, Korean time, on Jan. 23, a North Korean patrol boat approached the Pueblo and with international flag signals asked the American ship to identify its nationality. The Pueblo hoisted the U.S. ensign.

"Heave to," the Communist ship said with more flag signals, "or I will open fire on you."

"I am in international waters," the Pueblo replied. The patrol boat circled the Pueblo.

About 1 p.m. three more North Korean patrol boats showed up, moving in from the seaward side. One ordered: "Follow in my wake; I have a pilot aboard."

The four ships closed in on the Pueblo off her bow, beam and quarter. Two Mig jets zoomed within sight of the Pueblo's crew. Another six planes were counted in the air by other U.S. intelligence sources, which also said 75 more North Korean warplanes were on alert at nearby Wonsan.

At 1:15 p.m. Bucher reported the patrol boats were trying to board the Pueblo and he would attempt to flee the area. The patrol boats were reported to have fired numerous shots, but the Pueblo apparently did not fire back.

One of the patrol boats backed toward the bow of the Pueblo with fenders rigged and armed boarding party. At 1:45 p.m. the North Koreans came aboard—and at this time the Pueblo radioed it first call for assistance.

At 2:10 p.m. the Pueblo messaged she had been told to follow the North Korean boats into Wonsan. At 2:32 p.m. came her final word: She had come to "all stop" and was "going off the air."

During the action four of the Pueblo's crewmen were injured. The Reds reported later that one, Fireman Duane D. Hodges, of Creswell, Ore., had died.

Bucher radioed during the encounter that he had ordered destruction of secret equipment aboard the ship. How much of the coding and other sensitive gear was actually destroyed before the Communists took over is not known. The Pueblo did not carry a device for quick scuttling of the ship in an emergency.

The U.S. government is definite, however, in pinpointing the Pueblo's location at the time of seizure as 25 miles from Wonsan and 15.4 miles from the closest island, Ung Do.

Officials say both U.S. and North Korean radar tracking show the ship was not inside Korean waters that day. Officials have not ruled out the possibility the vessel may have strayed inside the 12-mile limit during the days of radio silence.

Check Voting Machine in Rosendale

The village election results in Rosendale which indicated that some 59 voters may have entered the voting machine in the village hall but failed to cast a ballot motivated election authorities to check the machine after authorization was received from the County Board of Elections.

William Ritter of the Democratic Peoples Party, running unopposed received 29 votes on the machine and one absentee ballot. However the voting machine counter registered 88.

The voting machine was checked in the presence of some 40 witnesses including Arthur Hahn, custodian; election inspectors, Town Clerk Mrs. Catherine O'Leary, Village Clerk Mrs. Marie Lamb and others. The voting machine lever was activated 60 times but only half of the votes were registered by the machine.

Mrs. O'Leary said she would advise the voting machine manufacturer, Automatic Voting Machine Co., and ask them to inspect the machine and make repairs.

Student Rebels Demand the Prexy's Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rebellious students in their third day as rulers of the administration building at Howard University say the university president must quit before they'll come out.

At the first serious negotiations toward ending the dispute Thursday, a delegation of five students said President James M. Nabrit Jr. must go, and with him two other top university officials.

The student leaders and the five representatives of the administration—substantially escalated since the sit-in began Tuesday—said they might be followed up session today.

Classes at the predominantly Negro institution—nominally private but dependent for more than half its funds on the federal government—were suspended Wednesday by university officials. The administration said dormitories must be emptied by midnight tonight.

Maguire was driving north when the deer leaped in the path of the vehicle, which was damaged to the extent it had to be towed away. The deer was turned over to an agent of the State Conservation Department.

At 2:10 p.m. the Pueblo messaged she had been told to follow the North Korean boats into Wonsan. At 2:32 p.m. came her final word: She had come to "all stop" and was "going off the air."

During the action four of the Pueblo's crewmen were injured. The Reds reported later that one, Firearm Duane D. Hodges, of Creswell, Ore., had died.

Bucher radioed during the encounter that he had ordered destruction of secret equipment aboard the ship. How much of the coding and other sensitive gear was actually destroyed before the Communists took over is not known. The Pueblo did not carry a device for quick scuttling of the ship in an emergency.

The U.S. government is definite, however, in pinpointing the Pueblo's location at the time of seizure as 25 miles from Wonsan and 15.4 miles from the closest island, Ung Do.

Officials say both U.S. and North Korean radar tracking show the ship was not inside Korean waters that day. Officials have not ruled out the possibility the vessel may have strayed inside the 12-mile limit during the days of radio silence.

Honor Resnick In Washington

Congressman Joseph V. Resnick was presented with a bronze and wood plaque during the Order of AHEPA's three day conference and 18th biennial congressional dinner in Washington, D. C., recently.

The award was made for the Ellenville Democrat's "steadfast pursuit of legislative excellence."

Making the presentation on behalf of AHEPA's supreme lodge was George A. Pappas of Kingston Lodge No. 429.

Also present at the special ceremony were Jason Goumas of Kingston, John Foundas and John La Rotanda of Newburgh, and Steven Pechewys and William Chamuris of Poughkeepsie.

The 10 by 12 inch plaque, bearing the seal of AHEPA (American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association) is inscribed:

"For dedicated public service, nobility of purpose and steadfast pursuit of legislative excellence in promoting enduring interest of Nation and State, and devotion to the dignity and rights of all men. Bestowed in sincere admiration for consistent concern and friendship for the Supreme Lodge of the Order of AHEPA."

The plaque bears the signatures of Andrew Fasseas, supreme president, and Alfred Veneles, supreme secretary and chairman of the banquet and three-day conference.

A traditional event since 1929, the AHEPA banquet was attended by some 1,200 delegates from throughout the United States.

Most of the languages of Asia and Europe probably developed from the Indo-European.

Two Jima Is Returning to Japanese Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Jima, won at the cost of some 5,000 American lives 23 years ago, will be peacefully transferred back to Japanese rule within the next few weeks.

State Department officials said Thursday the United States will sign an agreement by late March or early April turning over to Japan administration of the historic World War II battle site and 28 other desolate Pacific islands of the Bonin-Volcano group.

Some 22,000 Japanese died in a vain effort in February and March of 1945 to hold the strategically important, eight-square-mile island. The over-all U.S. and Japanese casualty toll made it one of the bloodiest battles of the war.

The transfer will mean hauling down the American flag from Mt. Suribachi, where raising of the stars and stripes by Marines was recorded in one of history's most famous combat photographs. The 546-foot volcano will instead carry a bronze plaque commemorating the flag-raising.

Weiss accused Burns of using the state organization as a "propaganda agency" to further Kennedy's candidacy despite the state committee's endorsement of Johnson's renomination at a Buffalo meeting on Feb. 14th.

Burns, after Weiss's attack, fired off telegrams to the 62 state county chairmen, stating that he saw no conflict in his support of Kennedy and said party leaders could express their feelings when he came up for re-election in June.

At the Buffalo meeting, the state committee tabled two resolutions, one that would have approved the administration's Vietnam policy and the other that would have reserved its endorsement.

O'Connor served as a state senator for five years and spent 10 years as Queens district attorney.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has rejected an ethics committee proposal aimed at preventing another Bobby Baker-style scandal.

By a 43-37 vote, it approved Thursday an amendment to the committee's proposed code of conduct that would exempt top senatorial assistants from a ban on handling campaign funds.

Ironically, it was the 1964 scandal involving Robert G. Baker—the one-time aide to Senate Democrats who was accused of misusing campaign funds—that led to creation of the ethics panel and ultimately to its recommendations.

The committee had urged that all Senate aides be barred from handling such political funds. The amendment by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., exempts those aides paid $10,000 or more who are specifically designated by their senator-bosses in a written notice to the senate secretary.

Rockefeller immediately picked up the telephone and called Goldwater in Arizona. Slot said their conversation was "warm and personal. They have renewed their friendship."

The Comments And there were these comments: Nixon—"I am not home yet. I don't take anything for granted. The governor, I think, took a responsible position. After all, he is a leading contender. He is the governor of a major state, and has been a party leader of great importance in the country for some time."

After arriving in Madison to resume his campaign for Wisconsin's April 2 presidential primary, Nixon said, "I will continue to campaign as I have. But at this point, because of the new developments, I will extend my schedule geographically."

"I will not concentrate as much, say in Oregon, as I had previously intended."

Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, a GOP conservative uncommitted to the presidential nomination—"The governor still didn't preclude himself from eventually becoming a candidate. I don't think it is locked up for Nixon."

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay—"Gov. Rockefeller remains my choice for the nomination and will have my full support as New York's favorite son at the convention."

Ulster Word On Junk Cars

Permits that were issued for the year 1967 must be renewed each year effective April 1.

Landowners with an accumulation of two or more cars that are not fit for road use must make application to the Town Clerk or dispose of such vehicles. All new applicants will be given approval will be given approval to the Town ordinance.

Copies of the ordinance, as well as applications, are available at the town clerk's office.

Enforcement of the ordinance will take effect after April 1, subject to penalties of the ordinance.

Say O'Connor Will Direct Drive for LBJ

NEW YORK (AP) — City Council President Frank D. O'Connor will be named statewide coordinator in the campaign for the renomination of President Lyndon B. Johnson, it was learned today.

The appointment further widened the breach between state party leaders, particularly State Chairman John J. Burns, and Johnson's key aides in the state.

The appointment, bypassing Burns, will be announced by Edwin L. Weiss Sr., Democratic national committee chairman, at his New York City law office today.

The choice of O'Connor was seen as the latest in retaliatory tactics against Burns, who was attacked by Weiss Wednesday for supporting Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

O'Connor, 59, was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor in 1966, losing to Nelson A. Rockefeller by 392,000 votes. He was elected City Council president in 1965 by a plurality of some 430,000 votes following a successful primary fight against Daniel Patrick Moynihan, now director of the Harvard-MIT Center for Urban Affairs.

Weiss accused Burns of using the state organization as a "propaganda agency" to further Kennedy's candidacy despite the state committee's endorsement of Johnson's renomination at a Buffalo meeting on Feb. 14th.

WIFE, NELLIE

Memoriam In Loving Memory of my husband Peter Smith who passed away 4 years ago today March 22, 1964.

When loved ones go ahead of us, it's hard to say "Goodbye." And in our grief and sorrow we are tempted to ask "Why?" But they have found the peace and joy.

This world can never give, And in God's heavenly home, it's there. Not us, who truly live.

WIFE, NELLIE

Memoriam In Loving Memory of our mother, Kathryn Buckman who passed away three years ago March 22, 1965.

In our home she is fondly remembered. Sweet memories cling to her name. Those who loved her in life sincerely still love her in death just the same.

We think of you in silence, No eye can see us weep; But many a silent tear is shed. When others are asleep.

When we are lonely, And everything goes wrong, We seem to hear you whisper, "Cheer up and carry on."

Each time we look at your picture, You seem to smile and say, "Don't worry I am only sleeping. We'll meet again some day."

So you who have a loving mother, Cherish her with care. For you'll never know the lone lines.

Say O'Connor Will Direct Drive for LBJ

NEW YORK (AP) — City Council President Frank D. O'Connor will be named statewide coordinator in the campaign for the renomination of President Lyndon B. Johnson, it was learned today.

The appointment further widened the breach between state party leaders, particularly State Chairman John J. Burns, and Johnson's key aides in the state.

The appointment, bypassing Burns, will be announced by Edwin L. Weiss Sr., Democratic national committeeman, at his New York City law office today.

The choice of O'Connor was seen as the latest in retaliatory tactics against Burns, who was attacked by Weiss Wednesday for supporting Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

O'Connor, 59, was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor in 1966, losing to Nelson A. Rockefeller by 392,000 votes. He was elected City Council president in 1965 by a plurality of some 430,000 votes, following a successful primary fight against Daniel Patrick Moynihan, now director of the Harvard-MIT Center for Urban Affairs.

Weiss accused Burns of using the state organization as a "propaganda agency" to further Kennedy's candidacy despite the state committee's endorsement of Johnson's renomination at a Buffalo meeting on Feb. 14th.

Burns, after Weiss's attack, fired off telegrams to the 62 state county chairmen, stating that he saw no conflict in his support of Kennedy and said party leaders could express their feelings when he came up for re-election in June.

At the Buffalo meeting, the state committee tabled two resolutions, one that would have approved the administration's Vietnam policy and the other that would have reserved its endorsement.

O'Connor served as a state senator for five years and spent 10 years as Queens district attorney.

Bid to Curb Another 'Baker' Is Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has rejected an ethics committee proposal aimed at preventing another Bobby Baker-style scandal.

By a 43-37 vote, it approved Thursday an amendment to the committee's proposed code of conduct that would exempt top senatorial assistants from a ban on handling campaign funds.

But There's

"Congratulations on your courageous and intelligent decision. Your position will contribute immeasurably to a 1968 victory for the Republican party and even more importantly for this great nation, Barry."

Rockefeller immediately picked up the telephone and called Goldwater in Arizona. Slot said their conversation was "warm and personal. They have renewed their friendship."

The Comments And there were these comments: Nixon—"I am not home yet, I don't take anything for granted. The governor, I think, took a responsible position. After all, he is a leading contender. Paltz Census Is Planned

A new census, which would include resident college students, is planned by the Town and Village of New Paltz.

It will be taken in April and if a population increase is noted, the town will benefit in per capita aid payments from the state.

A number of towns and cities in the state have been conducting similar tabulations in recent years.

William Hill will instruct the census takers in an April 25 meeting. Application forms may be obtained from Ted Lasher at Town Hall.

Memorial In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Catherine E. McSPIRIT, who passed away 2 years ago March 22, 1966.

We think of you in silence, No eye can see us weep; But many a silent tear is shed, When others are asleep.

When we are lonely, And everything goes wrong, We seem to hear you whisper, "Cheer up and carry on."

Each time we look at your picture, You seem to smile and say, "Don't worry I am only sleeping. We'll meet again some day."

So you who have a loving mother, Cherish her with care, For you'll never know the loneliness.

Mexico Government Stable: Some Stocks Yield 9 Per Cent

Q—Now I'm free-lancing on three books and living on a tiny Social Security income while doing so. I'd like to move to Mexico, to the charming town of Morelia. I've heard that Mexico Telephone (owned by the government) is a good investment, and it pays nearly 9 per cent. Do you recommend it? Down there I could buy a bit at a time with book royalties.

A—My records do not indicate that Mexican Telephone stock is guaranteed by the government, but I do know that it serves practically the entire republic. The only risk you appear to run is currency devaluation, but I think that this can be discounted, since the Mexican peso is very stable. In your circumstances, I would be inclined to do just what you plan, and I'd like to join you if that were possible. You like to know that National Financiera, which is an instrumentality of the government, also sells to yield 9 per cent.

Q—I own 200 Southern Gas and 100 Heinz shares. Do you think I should hold or invest in other stocks?—M.R.

A—It's a little difficult to answer your question since I have no information regarding your objective. If you are aiming for reasonably steady growth and a yield above 3 per cent, I see no reason for you to sell your shares. Like many food stocks, Heinz has shown fairly wide variations in market price. Southern National Gas has had a steadier and more consistent record in this regard. The company is presently negotiating a deal with Boise Cascade which should help both companies from a long-range viewpoint. Your two stocks sell at very reasonable multiples, and I see no need for you to dispose of them. A good stock should always be retained if earnings and dividends show a reasonably consistent upward trend.

4th Airliner Is Hijacked

HAVANA (AP) — A hijacked Venezuelan Convair airliner landed at Santiago in Eastern Cuba today with 50 persons on board. It was the fourth plane diverted by hijackers to Cuba this month and like the others probably will be released.

The Venezuelan Department of the Interior said four men pulled machine guns on the pilot after he left Caracas for Maracaibo and forced him to take the plane to Cuba.

The department said there were 47 passengers and three crewmen aboard.

An official at the Santiago airport said he did not know when the plane, its crew and the other passengers would be allowed to leave.

The plane is owned by Avenza Airlines.

The celebration of Halloween had its beginning in Ireland, by the Druids, about 2,000 years ago.

Dutchess Jury Resumes on Murder Case

A Dutchess County court trial jury today resumed deliberations in the first degree murder case against Richard S. Kent, 25-year-old Poughkeepsie mechanic, who was accused in the slaying of a 74-year-old Town of Clinton man in his home last June 25.

Kent was charged with the slaying of Joseph L. Murphy, retired New York City policeman.

District Attorney John R. Heilman Jr., completed his summation yesterday after Public Defender William J. Ciolek addressed the jury.

County Judge Raymond C. Baratta charged the jurors before they retired early last evening.

One of the last witnesses for the prosecution was Paul D. McCann, deputy director of the New York State Identification and Intelligence System and a fingerprint expert. He testified that he had analyzed a fingerprint taken from the headboard of Murphy's bed and had arrived at the conclusion that it was Kent's.

McCann's testimony was in direct contradiction to testimony previously given by Dr. Vassilis C. P. Maropoulos, a New York City fingerprint expert, who said "very crucial dissimilarities" existed between the print taken from the bed of the victim and Kent's own prints.

McCann testified he had found 14 characteristics that were similar in the two prints, when 12 are considered sufficient to identify them as being from the same finger.

Attends Conclave
John Sullivan, executive director of Gateway Industries Inc., will be among members of District II committee attending The New York State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation meeting at Poughkeepsie Monday.

The committee, made up of representatives from a seven-county area, is one of many which meet throughout the state to determine long-range training facility needs, legislation and overall vocational rehabilitation planning for the handicapped adult in New York State.

C-H Dividends
The Board of Directors of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, at its monthly meeting held at the South Road Office, Poughkeepsie, New York, today declared a dividend of 36 cents per share on its common stock, payable May 1, 1968 to holders of record April 10, 1968.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to drift lower in moderate trading early Friday.

Losses outnumbered gains by a ratio of about 4 to 3 on the New York Stock Exchange. The exchange's index dipped slightly.

The Dow Jones industrial average was unchanged at 825.13. Most gold-mining issues were up as they followed their usual contraband habits. In addition, selective strength was shown by some recent losers.

IBM gained 2 and Xerox nearly a point.

Among gold stocks, American-South African rose about 1½ and Campbell Red Lake a point or better while Benquet edged higher and homestake to a fraction.

Boeing dropped a point. Fractional losses were shown by Ford, Raytheon, Goodyear, Penn Central and Pfizer.

The top four steelmakers edged higher.

Trading blocks included: Scott Paper, off ¼ at 23 and 11,200 shares; Peabody Coal, unchanged at 45 on 11,000; and American Telephone, up ½ at 49½ on 7,000.

Thursday's drop in the Dow Jones industrial average to a new low for 1968 was discouraging technically. Market chartists, however, were waiting to see whether the lower line of the uptrend band connecting the lows of 1962 and 1966 — represented 810 in the Dow — would hold or be violated.

Prices were irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange, Mohawk Data Sciences led 1.

Up about a point were Data Processing and Sel-Rex.

Hope-Benny Combo a Natural

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Any evening of entertainment that has both Bob Hope and Jack Benny in their own acts is a rich entertainment mix, and so it was on NBC Wednesday.

A Predictable Volley

Hope popped into sight with a predictable volley of one liners directed at every presidential possibility in sight and New Hampshire received the kind of attention he usually reserves for California.

The sketches included one spoof of "Bonnie and Clyde." No variety show apparently can resist it. There was an exchange concerning golf with Arnold Palmer who may be a wizard of the links but demonstrated that he is something of a duffer when it comes to reading cue cards.

Benny, in his only special of the season, stuffed his show with celebrities. There were Lucille Ball and Johnny Carson as guest stars. There was also an assortment of quick sight gags starring an assortment ranging from the Smothers brothers to Dean Martin. Since Jack's show was more or less tied to a carnival theme, there was also a chance to insert a sword swallower and a fire eater.

Benny, of course, was the familiar character he has played for three decades of broadcasting—and so was Johnny Carson in a very funny impression of Benny when he played Jack's son with Benny in a sketch. Lucille Ball had her comedy moments, dressed up in a slinky harem costume and singing a siren song about having a man around the house while surrounded by muscle men.

A Happy Ending

Earlier on "The Avengers" of ABC, a surprise came in the very final moments of the weekly adventure of John Steed and Mrs. Emma Peel. Through all these seasons of summer replacements, it was understood that the swinging Mrs. Peel was a footloose if not exactly fancy free widow. Last night, her husband turned up. Instead of being dead in a plane crash, he was lost 11 years in the jungle. So Mrs. Peel, a little regretfully, went obediently off to the joys of housewifery—and Miss Diana Rigg who played the part, was on her way back to the stage and movies.

The episode was concerned mostly with shooting people with a drug pellet that produced "nesia" and with lots of fights, but it did introduce the new girl in Steed's life. She is a very pretty, wide-eyed brunette named Linda Thorson and plays an agent named Tara King. She demonstrated at the outset that she is almost as good at hand-to-hand fighting as Mrs. Peel.

Fans of the droll series undoubtedly will like the switch-over in stride. The show is remarkable in the way it makes the most vicious evil-doing and prolonged slug fests seem part of a sprightly little comedy.

Jerry—Well, I happen to know for a fact that he never kisses his girl without saying grace. James—Why, what in the world does he do that for?

$3.3 Billion for Vietnam?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional sources say the administration is expected soon to ask $3.3 billion more for the Vietnam war, a request likely to spark another round of war policy debate on Capitol Hill.

Half for More Troops

The sources said Wednesday that about half the still tentative request would be earmarked for sending about 35,000 more U.S. troops to the war zone—a reported manpower move already under sharp congressional attack.

Defense Department officials told Congress in January they did not estimate any need for a supplement to defense funds voted last year, barring unforeseen emergencies. But their statements came just days before the Viet Cong launched its massive Tet offensive. Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Foreign Relations Committee, said meanwhile that reported advance notice from the White House to key Congress members on troop increases "is exactly the sort of thing I've been complaining about."

Reports on Capitol Hill say some Congress members already have been told President Johnson has decided to send 35,000 more men to Vietnam. Fulbright has been demanding that Congress be consulted before such decisions are made.

Serious Matter: Fulbright
"Any increase would be a serious matter," he said in an interview. "Do they mean 35,000 now and 35,000 more in a few months, or what do they mean? Those are the sort of questions that should be asked before any decision is made."

He added that White House conferences with congressional leaders do not contribute his idea of full consultation, nor do contacts between individual senators and the administration. "They get four or five people together and tell them, 'This is what we've decided,'" Fulbright said.

The Arkansas Democrat said he had not heard from the White House on the troop-increase reports.

Gen. David M. Shoup, former Marine Corps commandant, appeared before Fulbright's committee to say a military victory in South Vietnam is impossible. He submitted a peace plan proposing that:

The Peace Plan

1. The United States and South Vietnam ask Hanoi to schedule negotiations, with North Vietnam fixing the degree of participation by the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong.

2. When the talks start, there would be a halt to U.S.-South Vietnamese offensive operations, with the right reserved to continue observation activities.

3. North Vietnam would not have to halt offensive operations as a condition for talks but refusal to do so would be interpreted by the United States and South Vietnam as meaning Hanoi is not interested in a peaceful settlement.

4. If North Vietnam did halt its offensives, the talks could proceed with the goal of withdrawing U.S. and other outside combat forces from South Vietnam.

Shoup said he submitted this plan last June to then-Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara who told him it would be relayed to the White House. The retired general told newsmen he heard nothing further.

In other war-related developments:

—Edwin O. Reischauer, former ambassador to Japan and a critic of U.S. policy in Vietnam, denied a White House statement that President Johnson consults him on matters dealing with Southeast Asia.

Catherine O'Bannon, wife of Michael O'Bannon, 21, a fireman on the intelligence vessel when it was captured Jan. 23 off North Korea's coast, said the letter she received repeatedly urged her to tell U.S. authorities the Pueblo violated the Communist nation's territorial waters.

Mrs. Warren Hayes of Columbus, Ohio, said the letter apparently written by her son, Radioman 2.C. Lee Hayes, described the Pueblo as an espionage ship spying in North Korean waters, asked the United States to admit this and apologize, and added:

"I ask you as my parents to do the same."

Officials in Washington noted such requests closely paralleled those in a letter—purportedly signed by all 82 surviving Pueblo crewmen—which North Korea made public earlier this month.

That letter, addressed to President Johnson, urged him to "frankly admit" the alleged violation and apologize.

The administration has declined to disclose what action might be taken in response to that appeal.

Top administration officials, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk and former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, have maintained that to the best of their knowledge the Pueblo did not penetrate North Korean waters.

At the same time they have conceded that since the ship was operating under radio silence for about 8 to 10 days before its capture, there might have been a territorial violation of which they weren't aware.

Several relatives of crewmen reported turning the letters over to the government and officials were reportedly studying them.

They noted it was obvious the letters could not have been sent by the captive crewmen if the North Korean government hadn't wanted them sent.

Some Paris Postmarks

Some of the letters bore Paris and Marseille postmarks, which U.S. officials said indicated they may have been sent to France through North Korea or other diplomatic channels.

Mrs. Hayes said she was sure her son wrote the letter she received—but was equally certain it was written under supervision.

She noted it contained few misspelled words. "He never wrote that neatly and he misspelled a lot of little words," Mrs. Hayes said.

She added she intends to write the government as the letter suggested, seeking a U.S. apology.

"We just can't forget our son's over there—it's been buried too long. We must do something now," she said.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Woelk, of Alta Vista, Kan., said the letter and a picture from their son, Fireman Apprentice Steven Eugene Woelk, said he was being "treated all right" and "not to worry"—a recurrent theme in most of the other letters.

Milk Order From Freeman Nice Surprise

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Dairymen in the Northeast are expected to reap an additional $37 million over the next 12 months as a result of a pleasant surprise from Washington — an election-year milk price-support boost.

The 30,000 dairy farmers in the New York-New Jersey milk marketing order will receive 28 cents more a hundredweight (46.5 quarts) for Class I fluid milk and milk used for manufacturing.

The move, announced Wednesday by Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman, surprised officials of cooperatives in the Northeast.

One leader noted Thursday that "we just weren't given any consideration at all" in recent appeals for price increases.

Seek Man's Identity

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A man whose charred body was found in the ruins of an apartment house swept by fire may be that of a post-doctoral fellow at the State University of Buffalo, suburban Kenmore police say.

Police said Dr. Luis de Oliv-aria Medeiros, 30, a chemistry fellow, had not been accounted for since the fire early Wednesday in the building, of which he was a tenant.

They said they hoped to determine positive identity of the victim through dental records.
Medeiros, a native of Portugal, came to this country in January after living in England for three years.

Youth, Girl Arrested in Poughkeepsie

Investigation of a complaint that someone was in vacant rooms at the Yorkshire Apartments on Innis Avenue in the Town of Poughkeepsie shortly after 11 p. m. Thursday, resulted in the arrests of a 17-year-old youth and a 16-year-old Poughkeepsie girl.

Town Police Lieut. David Cundy said the custodian at the apartment house notified authorities that he heard someone walking in a vacant apartment. Patrolmen Edward Luty and William Hampton were assigned to investigate.

Police found Harold J. Callaghan Jr., 17, of 483 Violet Avenue, and Carol Imperati, of 31 North Clinton Street in the apartment. The two were taken into custody on charges of criminal trespassing.

Arraigned before Poughkeepsie Town Justice Lyle B. Quick, both defendants pleaded innocent. They were committed to the Dutchess county jail in lieu of $200 bail each pending a hearing at 7 p. m. today in the Town Court.

She originally was charged

MARCY, N.Y. (AP) — State Police expanded today their search for a 33-year-old inmate who escaped from the Marcy State Hospital near this community about five miles north-west of Utica.

James Bird of Syracuse was reported missing shortly after mid-day Thursday. Troopers said he had been reported seen boarding a Utica-bound bus at nearby Oriskany.

Bird's criminal record included arrests for burglary and armed robbery, and he once exchanged gunfire with police before being apprehended, troopers said.

Bird, who is 6-foot-3 and weighs 175 pounds, was wearing a gray sweater and dark trousers when he fled the institution.

See Medals for Do-It-Yourselfers

by VIVIAN BROWN
Spring is the time to build the morale of your do-it-yourselfer. It would be an ideal time for a national holiday to honor the long-suffering home workman with parades and fanfare and

"gone fishing" signs everywhere. But in lieu of such prestigious acclaim, the next best thing might be a home merit badge. Awards are given for everything else, so why not for home carpentry? It's tough to work all weekend and then, when perspiration gets the better of you, to be thanked only with, "Well, after all, it's your house, and it's the only way we can afford to get the job done."

Ah-so—but, he needs something more tangible.

Keep a record of his hours and projects. Skip the gold star routine. Instead, award him a little prize occasionally. For example:

If he has built a shelf you've always wanted, consider the sum you've saved. Can you afford to invest a quarter or tenth of it for a little gift. A tie? Film for his movie camera? Fishing flies?

When he tries to rest from the project for a few hours, avoid heckling remarks like: "Aren't you going to finish that today?" "I knew it was too good to be true." "I guess we'll wait another year before THAT'S finished."

Instead, anticipate his work quotient and be the one to suggest that he knock off for awhile. If you must wait to have the project completed, you can be assured he'll come back sooner, with vigor and without rancor.

Point up the finished project to everyone who calls at your home. "My husband did

THAT." You'll notice he will not protest, even if he loses other husbands as friends.

Husbands are hams. They eat up all the flattering tidbits the family tosses their way. Everything accomplished by them around their homes is more or less expected, and it gets them down.

If he does a really big project—an addition to the house or room remodeling—give a party in his honor. They have "topping-off" parties for paid workers when the roof is put on a new house; parties are held in honor of architects, and parties are given by builders to launch their little and big developments. Why not give a shindig for your very own architect-carpenter-builder husband? Name the room after him. This is "Mike '68," the nursery is "Mike '64," and so on.

Be the first wife in your block to devise an emblem for her do-it-yourselfer. Big businesses have them. There's an emblem for wool, plywood, decorators. Your bank may have an emblem. So—why not an emblem for your pride and joy?

It can be a big corny emblem that can be pinned on his jacket for home parties. Or make a do-it-yourself badge or home service bars that can be put on his work clothes.

Your do-it-yourselfer. First Class, might enjoy finding a merit bar on his shirt—a few inches cut off a tape measure and sewed to the sleeve.

If the idea catches on in your neighborhood, it might be hard to keep up with stripes as husbands vie to tick off projects around the house. (This happy thought is enough to send a woman reeling.)

Labor is the biggest expense in home building. If your husband has built a bathroom or other room that was estimated to cost between $1,200 and $2,000, he should have earned a pretty good gift by the time you have a shindig. A fishing rod, duck decoys, outboard motor or another gift that he can make immediate use of is ideal. But don't forget to sandwich in a few little gifts while the project is under way.

And even if you do little more than break even financially on the project, there's some satisfaction in having your do-it-yourselfer retire happily with his rewards. It should be a good-humored spring at your house.

Plants Have Tailored Look

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

More and more, plants are being tailored to meet the needs of home gardens. Plant breeders these days are concerned with more than bigger flowers, color combinations and clearer hues. They pay much attention to size, habits and requirements of the plants.

You would hardly recognize some of your old plant friends in their modern garb. Therefore it's a good idea to think ahead about your garden's appearance, instead of merely picking up packages of name seeds.

Consider more than color and shape. Do you need a border or a ground cover, or flowers that will bloom in shade or partial sunlight. Do you want tall or small flowers or compact plants?

Above all, buy quality plants. They are worth the little extra cost. You may buy plants already blooming in tiny plastic or peat pots. These provide instant garden, but you'll do better to buy younger plants that have not been forced too hard.

Pinching back the central stem of a plant will encourage branching. Annuals will provide color from end of frost to start of frost. Perennials have a limited color showing.

The unbeatable combination in gardening is good, loose soil, adequate plant food, thorough watering and proper attention.

One gardener we know says colors can be used to create an illusion. He says the cool violet, blue and green recede, while warm orange, red and yellow advance. In a short yard, use cool colors to the rear to make the yard appear deeper. If your garden is long and narrow, use strong, warm colors to the rear to make it appear shorter.

The Weeder's Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

There was a large number of new items at the 51st International Flower Show and Garden Fair in New York City's Coliseum.

One was a "sniff garden" of fragrant herbs by the Tool Shed Herb Farm of Purdy's Station, N.Y. The exhibit included herbs and allied plants used in the manufacture of perfumes, soaps and cosmetics. In a covered shed were old tools illustrating the making of perfumes and soaps.

Two Omurosakii azalea (lavender) more than six feet in diameter were shown by Dauernheim of Wantagh, Long Island. The huge specimens feature a southern azalea garden. A redwood path led from a garden gate to masses of Indica azaleas in orange tones. White flowering crabapple trees bordered a small pool.

A cow and calf grazed in Arthur Kennedy's ranunculus (buttercup family) garden. The new "Patricia Andrea" geranium with double carmine rose flowers and waxy leaves was shown by Dalsimer of Cedarhurst, N. Y.

For the first time, there was an unusual garden of lilacs, by Lilac Time of Rochester, N. Y. Highland Park experts, through special methods, forced the lilacs in time for the show.

Twenty different trees of the pine family native, Oriental and European, in different sizes and textures, came from Adolf Heimlich's Woburn, Mass., garden.

Rare Spanish fir trees and Japanese larch were shown by Panfield Nurseries on Long Island.

"Fragrant Cloud," a bright coral red hybrid tea, was featured by Jackson & Perkins. The New York Botanical Garden had a fascinating wild flower exhibit. Included were insectivorous plants, known as pitcher plants, that dine on winged insects they trap. Don't feed the plants, the Garden warns. It's dangerous to the plants.

Burpee Seeds had a "movable garden" designed by horticulturist-author Jerome Eaton. This demonstrated the flexibility possible through the use of popular annuals planted in pots. Eaton said this permits having a temporary garden in the city or the country, by a pool, terrace, doorway or even on a hard surface. The key to the Burpee exhibit was flaming color of massed annuals, with hybrid marigolds and asters as the basic plant materials.

In the New York State Conservation Department's exhibit were wild turkeys and a white-tail deer.

See Medals for Do-It-Yourselfers

by VIVIAN BROWN
 Spring is the time to build the morale of your do-it-yourselfer. It would be an ideal time for a national holiday to honor the long-suffering home workman with parades and fanfare and

and then, when perspiration gets the better of you, to be thanked only with, "Well, after all, it's your house, and it's the only way we can afford to get the job done."

Ah-so—but, he needs something more tangible. Keep a record of his hours and projects. Skip the gold star routine. Instead, award him a little prize occasionally. For example:

If he has built a shelf you've always wanted, consider the sum you've saved. Can you afford to invest a quarter or tenth of it for a little gift. A tie? Film for his movie camera? Fishing flies?

When he tries to rest from the project for a few hours, avoid heckling remarks like: "Aren't you going to finish that today?" "I knew it was too good to be true." "I guess we'll wait another year before THAT'S finished."

Instead, anticipate his work quotient and be the one to suggest that he knock off for awhile. If you must wait to have the project completed, you can be assured he'll come back sooner, with vigor and without rancor.

Point up the finished project to everyone who calls at your home. "My husband did

THAT." You'll notice he will not protest, even if he loses other husbands as friends.

Husbands are hams. They eat up all the flattering tidbits the family tosses their way. Everything accomplished by them around their homes is more or less expected, and it gets them down.

If he does a really big project—an addition to the house or room remodeling—give a party in his honor. They have "topping-off" parties for paid workers when the roof is put on a new house; parties are held in honor of architects, and parties are given by builders to launch their little and big developments. Why not give a shindig for your very own architect-carpenter-builder husband? Name the room after him. This is "Mike '68," the nursery is "Mike '64," and so on.

Be the first wife in your block to devise an emblem for her do-it-yourselfer. Big businesses have them. There's an emblem for wool, plywood, decorators. Your bank may have an emblem. So—why not an emblem for your pride and joy?

It can be a big corny emblem that can be pinned on his jacket for home parties. Or make a do-it-yourself badge or home service bars that can be put on his work clothes.

Your do-it-yourselfer. First Class, might enjoy finding a merit bar on his shirt—a few inches cut off a tape measure and sewed to the sleeve.

If the idea catches on in your neighborhood, it might be hard to keep up with stripes as husbands vie to tick off projects around the house. (This happy thought is enough to send a woman reeling.)

Labor is the biggest expense in home building. If your husband has built a bathroom or other room that was estimated to cost between $1,200 and $3,000, he should have earned a pretty good gift by the time you have a shindig. A fishing rod, duck decoys, outboard motor or another gift that he can make immediate use of is ideal. But don't forget to sandwich in a few little gifts while the project is under way.

And even if you do little more than break even financially on the project, there's some satisfaction in having your do-it-yourselfer retire happily with his rewards. It should be a good-humored spring at your house.

Plants Have Tailored Look

By EARL ARONSON
 AP Newsfeatures

More and more, plants are being tailored to meet the needs of home gardens. Plant breeders these days are concerned with more than bigger flowers, color combinations and clearer hues. They pay much attention to size, habits and requirements of the plants.

You would hardly recognize some of your old plant friends in their modern garb. Therefore it's a good idea to think ahead about your garden's appearance, instead of merely picking up packages of name seeds.

Consider more than color and shape. Do you need a border or a ground cover, or flowers that will bloom in shade or partial sunlight. Do you want tall or small flowers or compact plants?

Above all, buy quality plants. They are worth the little extra cost. You may buy plants already blooming, in tiny plastic or peat pots. These provide instant garden, but you'll do better to buy younger plants that have not been forced too hard.

Pinching back the central stem of a plant will encourage branching. Annuals will provide color from end of frost to start of frost. Perennials have a limited color showing.

The unbeatable combination in gardening is good, loose soil, adequate plant food, thorough watering and proper attention. One gardener we know says colors can be used to create an illusion. He says the cool violet, blue and green recede, while warm orange, red and yellow advance. In a short yard, use cool colors to the rear to make the yard appear deeper. If your garden is long and narrow, use strong, warm colors to the rear to make it appear shorter.

The Weeder's Guide

By EARL ARONSON
 AP Newsfeatures

There was a large number of new items at the 51st International Flower Show and Garden Fair in New York City's Coliseum.

One was a "sniff garden" of fragrant herbs by the Tool Shed Herb Farm of Purdy's Station, N.Y. The exhibit included herbs and allied plants used in the manufacture of perfumes, soaps and cosmetics. In a covered shed were old tools illustrating the making of perfumes and soaps.

Two Omurosakii azalea (lavender) more than six feet in diameter were shown by Dauernheim of Wantagh, Long Island. The huge specimens feature a southern azalea garden. A redwood path led from a garden gate to masses of Indica azaleas in orange tones. White flowering crabapple trees bordered a small pool.

A cow and calf grazed in Arthur Kennedy's ranunculus (buttercup family) garden. The new "Patricia Andrea" geranium with double carmine rose flowers and waxy leaves was shown by Dalsimer of Cedarhurst, N. Y.

For the first time, there was an unusual garden of lilacs, by Lilac Time of Rochester, N. Y. Highland Park experts, through special methods, forced the lilacs in time for the show.

Twenty different trees of the pine family, native, Oriental and European, in different sizes and textures, came from Adolf Heimlich's Woburn, Mass., garden.

Rare Spanish fir trees and Japanese larch were shown by Panfield Nurseries on Long Island.

"Fragrant Cloud," a bright coral red hybrid tea, was featured by Jackson & Perkins.

The New York Botanical Garden had a fascinating wild flower exhibit. Included were insectivorous plants, known as pitcher plants, that dine on winged insects they trap. Don't feed the plants, the Garden warns. It's dangerous to the plants.

Burpee Seeds had a "movable garden" designed by horticulturist-author Jerome Eaton. This demonstrated the flexibility possible through the use of popular annuals planted in pots. Eaton said this permits having a temporary garden in the city or the country, by a pool, terrace, doorway or even on a hard surface. The key to the Burpee exhibit was flaming color of massed annuals, with hybrid marigolds and asters as the basic plant materials.

In the New York State Conservation Department's exhibit were wild turkeys and a white-tail deer.

The International Show is a non-profit operation. Proceeds beyond the cost are used for scholarships for deserving students in the horticulture arts and for research projects benefiting gardeners.

The show is sponsored by the Horticultural Society of New York and the New York Florists' Club. The society maintains one of the world's most complete horticultural libraries.

Speaker at College Labels Schweitzer Symbol of Light

"Because Dr. Albert Schweitzer was one light in darkness, he became a symbol of light."

That is now Dr. Amiya Chakravarty, a well-known Indian philosopher, yesterday described the late Dr. Schweitzer, whom he called "a man in our time," in a talk at Ulster County Community College.

Dr. Chakravarty, a former associate of Dr. Schweitzer in Europe and Africa, said this man's philosophy came out of his life in Africa with a noteworthy contribution being his reverence for life. "This," he added, "is a responsibility for a miracle which is life."

The speaker called Africa a "proving ground" for Dr. Schweitzer just as it helped Gandhi to discover India. Africa, he said, was a place for Dr. Schweitzer to find an avenue for the kind of service he wanted to render. "Dr. Schweitzer did a multi-purpose job in Africa," Dr. Chakravarty said, "and became a legend because of the day-by-day work he achieved and because of his work in saving the lives one-by-one."

The speaker estimated that Dr. Schweitzer saved about 3,500 human lives in Africa with his own hands. "Dr. Schweitzer proved," he said, "that a life can be made worthy by service rendered to someone else."

Everyone is privileged in one way or another, he contended, and those like Dr. Schweitzer, who have an ability or a skill have a responsibility to share it with others. "This is the

Sheep Deaths Trigger Call For Utah Probe

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Sen. Frank E. Moss has asked the Army for a full report on tests conducted at western Utah's top-secret Dugway proving grounds on the day before 6,000 sheep began dying on adjacent rangeland.

"What we rather suspect is they're using some exotic, even unnamed agents in the area and this has caused the death of the animals," the Utah Democrat said today in New Orleans. "If this is so, we ought to know about it so there won't be any danger for human lives as well as to eliminate further injury to the animals," he added.

The Army chemical and biological test area is located about 50 miles southwest of Salt Lake City.

Moss said the Army on March 13 conducted nerve gas tests at Dugway. Sheep were found dead the next day within 35 miles downwind from the tests.

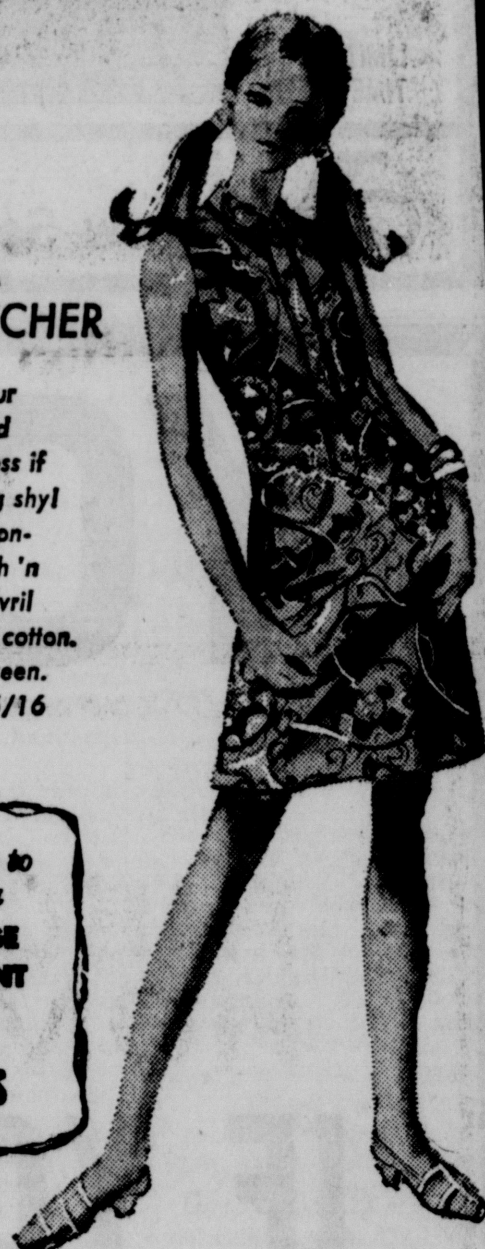

WGHQ Employees Reject Union

The National Labor Relations Board on Thursday conducted an election among eligible employees of WGHQ radio station to determine whether or not they wanted to become affiliated with the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists union.

Four employees of the radio station were eligible to participate in the election and the vote was tied, 2 to 2, which means there will be no union affiliation at WGHQ.

That is now Dr. Amiya Chakravarty, a well-known Indian philosopher, yesterday described the late Dr. Schweitzer, whom he called "a man in our time," in a talk at Ulster County Community College.

Dr. Chakravarty, a former associate of Dr. Schweitzer in Europe and Africa, said this man's philosophy came out of his life in Africa with a noteworthy contribution being his reverence for life. "This," he added, "is a responsibility for a miracle which is life."

The speaker called Africa a "proving ground" for Dr. Schweitzer just as it helped Gandhi to discover India. Africa, he said, was a place for Dr. Schweitzer to find an avenue for the kind of service he wanted to render. "Dr. Schweitzer did a multi-purpose job in brotherhood or fellowship of man," he added.

Dr. Chakravarty, a professor of Eastern Philosophy at the State University College at New Paltz, was introduced by President George B. Erbstein.

Sheep Deaths Trigger Call For Utah Probe

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Sen. Frank E. Moss has asked the Army for a full report on tests conducted at western Utah's top-secret Dugway proving grounds on the day before 6,000 sheep began dying on adjacent rangeland.

"What we rather suspect is they're using some exotic, even unnamed agents in the area and this has caused the death of the animals," the Utah Democrat said today in New Orleans. "If this is so, we ought to know about it so there won't be any danger for human lives as well as to eliminate further injury to the animals," he added.

The Army chemical and biological test area is located about 50 miles southwest of Salt Lake City.

Moss said the Army on March 13 conducted nerve gas tests at Dugway. Sheep were found dead the next day within 35 miles downwind from the tests.

WGHQ Employees Reject Union

The National Labor Relations Board on Thursday conducted an election among eligible employees of WGHQ radio station to determine whether or not they wanted to become affiliated with the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists union.

Four employees of the radio station were eligible to participate in the election and the vote was tied, 2 to 2, which means there will be no union affiliation at WGHQ.

Hasbrouck, former president of the Ulster County Historical Society, describes High Falls as "The second home of the Dutch of Ulster." Part of his talk will be focused on early land exploitation of the High Falls area by speculators, "by men who, in many cases, were never any closer to the area than Kingston," he says. "These entrepreneurs were looking for ways of taking a chance — acquiring land — and they eyed the Rondout Creek area of Marbletown and Rosendale as fair game for such a venture."

He will also discuss the High Falls tercentenary celebration coming up next year, and will give a few ideas of what can be accomplished.

New Way of Life

CHICAGO (AP) — "The question of proper retirement age is not settled and probably never will be to the satisfaction of everyone," said Arthur R. Weed, retirement consultant to a senior citizens group.

In a survey of 75 large companies, it was found that 79 per cent normally retire employees at 65 although only 47 per cent of the firms polled made retirement at that age mandatory.

Thirteen per cent of the companies set no retirement date. The remaining 8 per cent have chosen some other age between 61 and 70.

Open Door Set For Recruiters At State Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The chancellor of the State University against the recruiters will continue to have the right to do so, Gould said. Representatives of Dow Chemical Co., manufacturers of napalm, and the armed services have been the object of protest demonstrations on virtually all campuses of the university. Officials at Syracuse University have barred temporarily military recruiters, pending a study of their activities related to education. Gould said the most vocal protesters are a small minority. He named the Students for the Democratic Society, along with "hippies," as the "most vocal and disorderly."

Open Door Set For Recruiters At State Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The chancellor of the State University of New York says the huge institution will continue its open-door policy toward recruiters for the armed services and industries.

Dr. Samuel B. Gould said Wednesday the policy of permitting recruiters to interview willing students would not be changed unless "it becomes a matter of safety."

Students who wish to dissent against the recruiters will continue to have the right to do so, Gould said.

Representatives of Dow Chemical Co., manufacturers of napalm, and the armed services have been the object of protest demonstrations on virtually all campuses of the university.

Officials at Syracuse University have barred temporarily military recruiters, pending a study of their activities related to education.

Gould said the most vocal protesters are a small minority. He named the Students for the Democratic Society, along with "hippies," as the "most vocal and disorderly."

"Groups like SDS would like nothing better than to embarrass the institution, disrupt us and interrupt education," the chancellor said.

After the wedding a reception for 250 guests was held in the reception hall at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, Kingston. The wedding was the first one to be held at the new church.

The Rev. Mr. Osborne, father of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Frederic W. Spence, Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, Johnson City, uncle of the bride.

Miss Ruth Wood of Nyack Missionary College sang traditional wedding selections, accompanied at the organ by Gilbert Cicio. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white embroidered velvet gown. The material had been imported from France and the gown was made by Mrs. George Shaver of Marlborough, friend of the bride. The gown was fashioned in the A-line style with inlaid pleat from the waist. It had a scooped neckline, pointed sleeves and a chapel length train. Her white silk illusion, elbow-length, veil was shirred to a stylized headpiece, edged with seed pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis on a white ribbon presented by the bride's father. An orchid corsage was detachable and used for the bride's traveling ensemble.

Mrs. G. Gareth Osborne, Salem, Mass., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a purple velvet, floor-length, A-line gown styled with an inlaid pleat from the waist. It had a scooped neckline and long sleeves. A lavender satin bow headpiece was attached to a circular veil of nylon tulle and she carried a nosegay of carnations with lavender streamers. Attendants were Mrs. Rhoda Baughman, Mansfield, Ohio, sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Rose Post, Kingston; Miss Terri Sue Winger, Franklin, Pa., cousin of the bride; Miss Cheryl Shaver, Kingston, junior bridesmaid. The attendants carried nosegays of yellow carnations with yellow streamers and the junior bridesmaid carried a miniature nosegay of yellow carnations with yellow streamers.

Miss Peggy Shaver, Kingston, was flower girl. She wore a purple velvet gown with short sleeves, styled similarly to that of the junior bridesmaid and she carried a white princess basket of petals with a lavender bow.

Keith A. Osborne, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were James Baughman, Mansfield, Ohio, brother of the bride; G. Gareth Osborne, Salem, Mass., brother of the bride; David Fogelboch, Nyack. Dear Heloise:
What do you do with leftover beans? I usually cook a big pot of navy beans, or red beans, because I figure as long as the gas is being used, why not cook in a big potful?

But the next day my large family will not eat 'em because they are tired of beans. I would appreciate a little suggestion along this line.

Mother of Five

Next day, reheat the beans slowly so that the juice and seasoning will liquify and mix again. Pour off most of the juice and a few beans.

Take your potato masher and mash those beans that are in the juice. Slice some onions and put them in with the beans. Add a little celery salt, or some chopped, fresh celery, and if you have some leftover ham or a little bacon grease, add a little of either one.

Let this simmer on a low heat.

You will have the best bean soup imaginable.

Real yummy!

Now, for the rest of the beans. Dice about six slices of bacon into your heavy skillet (hope it is cast iron) and start frying it.

Chop a huge onion and after the bacon is partially fried, dump the onions in. Put a lid on the skillet and let simmer until the onions are partially cooked.

Add two tablespoons of vinegar and a heaping tablespoon of brown sugar, one-fourth cup of catsup (or chili sauce) and simmer for a few more minutes, stirring all the while. Sometimes I add a level teaspoon of chili powder to vary this dish.

Pour your leftover beans into this skillet with a small amount of juice and stir well. Put it all in your oven and bake on a slow heat for an hour or so, stirring frequently.

These are called "Bootleggers' beans."

If you really want to make a MEAL out of this dish, open a can of Vienna sausage, cut them in half and about 20 minutes before you are ready to serve the beans, push the sausages about halfway down into them.

Cooked beans may be kept in your refrigerator for a few days without spoiling, or in the freezer almost indefinitely.

Music Appreciation

The Music Appreciation Group met at the home of Mrs. Robert Pixley for its regular meeting on March 15.

The program was given by Mrs. Hans Decker who related important events in the life of Peter Ilitch Tchaikovsky, concluding with a comprehensive study of his Fifth Symphony which prepared the group for a better understanding of the music as they listened to a recording of a well-loved work. During the playing of this music, Mrs. Decker called attention to the motto-theme as it appears in each of the four movements, and is picked up in turn by different instruments, each time with a change of key. This method serves to dispel a sense of repetition, and presents an appeal to all music lovers.

A social hour was held after the business meeting with Mrs. Pixley serving refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Ella Ochs.

Versatile Vegetables Add Color and Flavor

Vegetables can add bright color, appetizing flavor and marvelous texture to your meals, yet their garden-bright goodness is often overlooked in menu planning. They can be as gala as you please. Be dramatic and combine two contrasting vegetables, season them with a novel spice and serve them in your prettiest vegetable dish, garnished with butter-browned bread crumbs.

Dilly Cauliflower and Peas is a tasty duo that can be a year-round favorite at your house. The recipe boasts a cupboard-convenient buffet size can of sweet peas. Have packages of cauliflower frozen in cheese sauce tucked away in your freezer. Dill weed, a California-grown spice, has a subtle, pleasing flavor you'll enjoy with the cauliflower and peas.

DILLY CAULIFLOWER AND PEAS

Two 10-oz. packages cauliflower frozen in cheese sauce in flavor-tight cooking pouch
1/2 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons plus one teaspoon butter or margarine, melted
One 8 1/2-oz. can sweet peas, drained
1/2 teaspoon dill weed, crushed
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons dry bread crumbs
Slip pouches of cauliflower in peas, dill weed and salt with cheese sauce into boiling water. Bring water to a second boil; continue cooking 16 minutes. Do not cover pan. Meanwhile, saute celery and onion in two tablespoons butter until celery is tender. Combine cauliflower and Peas. Yield: Six servings.

Viking's Victuals Include Bread as a Must

Bread is the basis of the most traditional of Scandinavian food, the Smorrebrod. In fact the literal translation of the word is Smorre (butter) Brod (bread) or buttered bread. Smorrebrod may be dainty half slices of buttered bread topped with tasty tidbits and served as appetizers. Or hearty half slices of buttered bread piled high with delicacies and served as a meal. Restaurants in Denmark feature a separate long list of these sandwiches called Smorrebrodseddel. One such list is four feet long, containing descriptions of 177 kinds of sandwiches.

To make this Scandinavian specialty, start with an assortment of OLD WORLD Breads. Spread with butter or margarine to prevent the bread from becoming soggy; then cut in half. Top with a colorful combination of fish, meat, cheese, vegetables, fruit, etc. Whether leftovers from the refrigerator or delicacies from the supermarket, use the Danish artistic touch in arranging the toppings.

Allow two halves per person and serve with a knife and fork. Here are the illustrated Smorrebrod on Old World Bread, left to right.

Spread Westphalian Ham and Cheese Tasting Rye Bread slices with butter or margarine. Cut in half diagonally. Top with lettuce leaves. Roll thinly sliced salami to form a cornucopia. Saute cored, diced red apples in butter or margarine; pile in cornucopias. Place on lettuce; garnish with sprigs of watercress.

Spread Bavarian Pumpernickel Bread slices with butter or margarine. Cut in half diagonally. Cover with crumbled Roquefort or blue cheese. Make an indentation in center of cheese and carefully slip on an egg yolk. Garnish with sliced radishes.

Spread Swiss Seeded Rye Bread slices with butter or margarine. Cut in half diagonally. Top with lettuce leaves. Fold thinly sliced smoked ham slices in half; arrange on lettuce alternately with banana slices and halved red candied cherries. Garnish with parsley sprigs.

Spread Dutch Dill Bread slices with liver pate. Cut in half diagonally. Top with curls of fried bacon; garnish with dill pickle slices and sprigs of parsley.

Spread Jewish Rye Bread slices with butter or margarine. Cut in half diagonally. Top with lettuce leaves; then with 3 smoked salmon slices alternating with hard-cooked egg slices. Garnish with sprigs of fresh dill and capers.

Spread Swedish Rye Bread slices with butter or margarine. Cut in half diagonally. Top with lettuce leaves; then with 3 cooked small shrimp, asparagus tips and tomato wedges. Garnish with dabs of mayonnaise and snipped chives or parsley.

Tiny Tips

Empty Handbag Often

If you have a tendency to overstuff your handbag, empty it frequently and sort your collection. Repeated overstuffing will change the shape of the bag, weaken the fastenings and may break the seams. When the outside needs cleaning, follow the recommended methods.

Healthy Root Structures

Healthy growth of living plants depends on their nonvisible root structures. Plants professionally grown and conditioned in traditional red clay flower pots, rather than in synthetic containers, guarantee root insurance. They offer attractive foliage and flowers and thriving rootballs.

To Avoid Tipping Paint

To keep a can of paint from tipping over, cut a circular hole in a soap or cereal box and set the can on it. This also gives a place to rest the brushes.

Open From Bottom

To transfer spices from a store-bought container to your own spice jars, open the tin from the bottom with a can opener.

Wear Gloves

Keep an old pair of clean cotton gloves especially for rearranging frozen food in the freezer. They not only keep your hands from becoming chilled and uncomfortable, but they also make handling of these food packages easier and quicker.

Lions Expo Sports New Feature in '68

Something new is to be added to this year's Lions Club Expo. In addition to the already announced home, auto and health exhibits at this year's Kingston Lions Club Exposition at the Armory, April 23-27, it was announced today that an added feature this year there will be a sports-a-rama area. According to Lions exposition chairman, Meredith Morgan, "We expect the Sports-A-Rama area will feature the latest in camping equipment, boats, trailers, and out-door equipment."

Morgan also said that there is still booth space available in the sports area and any one interested in being an exhibitor should contact him. Lion Alfred Brocco has announced the following list of prizes to be awarded: an aluminum boat, clothes dryer, clock radios, electric blenders and electric mixers.

The major prizes this year include: Fourth runner-up, a portable TV; third runner-up, movie camera and projector; second runner-up, stereo tape recorder; first runner-up, color TV console. The grand prize will be $2500 toward the purchase of a new car from one of the participating Kingston automobile dealers.

Brocco pointed out that attendance at the exposition is not necessary to win one of the prizes. Lions Club members will be selling tickets at local shopping centers the weekends of April 5, 6, April 12, 13, and April 19, 20.

SOMETHING TO ROAR ABOUT — Something new has been added to this year's Kingston Lions Club Exposition to be held at the Armory April 23-27. A sports-a-rama area will be featured in addition to the home, auto and health exhibits already planned. The sports area will feature the latest in camping equipment, boats, trailers and out-door equipment. Lions exposition chairman and co-chairman, Meredith Morgan, left, and Gil Adin have a "friendly chat" with a couple of other Lions — determined on making the show a roaring success. Youth Leaders Attend Conclave Ulster County participants will be among those attending a special conference on Youth called by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller for April 5 in New York City.

Among the 700 adults and youth attending will be Andrew J. Murphy III, director of the Kingston Recreation Department; Joseph Martorana of the Town of Plattekill; William Whalen, youth officer of the Kingston Police Department; Dr. William Hagney of New Paltz State University College; Ernest Hopper, principal of Tilton High School and director of the Town of Rosendale Recreation Commission; Miss Jo Ann Pagliaro, Kingston High School student and John Maroney.

York State Division for Youth and Milton Luger, director of the division, will be conference chairman. Mrs. Fannie H. Lawson, field representative for the division in this region, is in charge of conference arrangements for this area.

Governor Rockefeller said that he had called the one-day conference "to establish a serious exchange between adults and youth and in this way enhance understanding among those involved in the generation gap."

Tax Study Committee Meets Next Thursday

The Tax Base Study Committee of the County Legislature has scheduled its final meeting Thursday, March 28 at 7:45 p.m. at the legislator's room prior to the public informational hearing on the proposed county sales tax.

The public session on the sale tax proposal is scheduled for Monday, April 8 at 7:45 p.m. at the county court house.

The various facets of the proposed county levy and possible ramifications will be reviewed by the committee in preparation for the informational meeting, according to Clarence Raichle, R-Kingston, committee chairman.

Earlier this week Raichle asked that prepared statements regarding the proposed levy should be submitted prior to the meeting at the office of Clerk of the Legislature Edward Mance at the county building.

Although the submission of prepared statements is not absolutely necessary, it would be helpful because those speaking at the meeting will be limited to approximately two minutes. District: Orrie Rich, D-Kings; Legislators and business men of the city have been pushing for a county sales tax because the city's 2 per cent levy went into effect March 1 and thus places the merchants and business men in the city at disadvantage. The Tax Base Study Committee in addition to Raichle includes Melvin Mones, R-Kings; Philip H. Davis and Ernest J. Gardner, Republicans, 11th District; C. Freeman Lasher, R-Sau; and Richard D. Nace, R-2nd District.

Lions Expo Sports New Feature in '68

Something new is to be added to this year's Lions Club Expo. In addition to the already announced home, auto and health exhibits at this year's Kingston Lions Club Exposition at the Armory, April 23-27, it was announced today that an added feature this year there will be a sports-a-rama area. According to Lions exposition chairman, Meredith Morgan, "We expect the Sports-A-Rama area will feature the latest in camping equipment, boats, trailer, and out-door equipment." Morgan also said that there is still booth space available in the sports area and anyone interested in being an exhibitor should contact him.

Lion Alfred Brocco has announced the following list of prizes to be awarded: an aluminum boat, clothes dryer, clock radios, electric blenders and electric mixers.

Brocco pointed out that attendance at the exposition is not necessary to win one of the prizes.

Lions Club members will be selling tickets at local shopping centers the weekends of April 5, 6, April 12, 13, and April 19, 20.

SOMETHING TO ROAR ABOUT — Something new has been added to this year's Kingston Lions Club Exposition to be held at the Armory April 23-27. A sports-a-rama area will be featured in addition to the home, auto and health exhibits already planned. The sports area will feature the latest in camping equipment, boats, trailers and out-door equipment. Lions exposition chairman and co-chairman, Meredith Morgan, left, and Gil Adin have a "friendly chat" with a couple of other Lions — determined on making the show a roaring success. Draft Board Gives Answers to Questions

Six questions posed recently to draft boards have been detailed in the public interest by Andrew T. Gilday, chairman of Local Board 18, Kingston.

The questions and answers follow:

Question: My draft board wouldn't defer me in Class II-S because I had not made normal progress toward by baccalaureate degree, but they gave me a Class I-S(C) deferment. The board said this was good for a year. If I've made normal progress by then, can I get Class II-S again?

Answer: Yes, providing you request a II-S deferment, can provide the local board with evidence that you are then satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction at the undergraduate level, and you are still under the age of 24.

Question: Do I still have a right of appeal after I have had a personal appearance before my local board?

Answer: Yes. Each classification, or determination made by your local board not to reopen your classification following your personal appearance, shall be followed by the same right of appeal as in the case of the original classification.

Question: What are the two types of conscientious objector classifications?

Answer: In Class I-A-O are those who have been found, by reason of religious training and belief, to be conscientiously opposed to combatant training and service. In Class I-O are placed those who have been found, by reason of their religious training and belief, to be conscientiously opposed to participation in both combatant and noncombatant training and service in the armed forces.

Question: I began graduate study in law school in September 1967 and am making satisfactory progress. Will I be entitled to continued deferment in II-S for my second year of law next September?

Answer: No. Under the advice of the National Security Council on Feb. 16, 1968, deferment for graduate study was limited to registrants in medicine, dentistry, or an allied medical specialty, or those who had entered the second or subsequent year of graduate study last fall.

Question: Under what authority does the National Security Council make recommendations on graduate and occupational deferments? Who are members of the council?

Answer: The Congress has directed the National Security Council to advise the director of Selective Service periodically concerning deferment of needed professional and scientific personnel and those in critical skills and other essential occupations. Members of the council are, the president, vice president, secretary of state, secretary of defense, and director of the office of emergency planning.

Question: Now that the National Security Council has recommended that the lists of essential activities and critical occupations be suspended, is there a change in the authority for granting occupational deferments?

Answer: No. Local draft boards have the continuing responsibility, by law, to determine a registrant's classification. Occupational deferments are based on a showing of essential community need.

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., March 22 — When a worker has been away in military service for several years, it is easy for an employer to forget his legal responsibility to that veteran if he wants his job back when he returns. But the draft law spells it out, and the Supreme Court has brought down some decisions on special cases that are worth reviewing now that veterans are returning in substantial numbers.

Rights Under The Draft Law

First and foremost, the draft law specifies that young men discharged from the service must be treated exactly as though they had been on a furlough or leave of absence. Upon request, they must be given back their old jobs with no loss of seniority. Any fringe provisions must be theirs on the same basis that applies to employees granted leaves of absence by their company. In other words, such young men must not be deprived of any benefits accruing to their jobs while they were absent serving their country.

Personnel executives in companies both large and small should be well versed in the legalities and ethics of treating returning veterans who want their jobs back. Misunderstanding of the intent of the draft law and ignorance of subsequent court findings can cause embarrassment all round. Upon his return, a veteran must be treated precisely as though his employment had been continuous during his absence. Any changes affecting his position while he was in the service must apply to the job when he returns. In at least one instance, even the elimination of their jobs through a labor-management agreement while the men were on duty did not release the employer from responsibility.

Specifics Of Seniority Guarantees

The High Court has made it clear that seniority must in no way be lost or lessened when a man is away in the service. Upon his return, a veteran must be treated precisely as though his employment had been continuous during his absence. Any changes affecting his position while he was in the service must apply to the job when he returns. In at least one instance, even the elimination of their jobs through a labor-management agreement while the men were on duty did not release the employer from responsibility.

Recently, a returning veteran claimed a paid vacation that he had nearly accrued when he went into the military. The employer gave him back his position without controversy, but insisted that the employee would have to start anew in order to build up qualifications for holiday and vacation pay. Interest in the case was stirred when a federal appellate court (admittedly divided in its decision) backed the employer in his stand. The High Bench, however, reversed the appellate decision by merely pointing to an earlier precedent which had supported the stand of the workers.

Solving Hypothetical Problems

It is not always a simple question of giving back to the veteran the job and rating he had when he left for his military term. Consideration must sometimes be given to any upgrading in his position that would doubtless have occurred had he remained on his company's staff without interruption. In one recent instance, a draftsman resuming his job after his service duty claimed that restitution of his former rating was not enough. He argued that a union agreement required virtually automatic promotion as long as there was an opening on a higher level. Had he been there on the spot, he persisted, his qualification would have resulted in his achieving a more satisfactory rating. Here again, the court went along with the veteran pressing for somewhat hypothetical advances.

For management to be mindful of the best interests of returning veterans is to avoid charges of callousness, or at least carelessness. Even though it may create temporary difficulties in evening out rating differences between workers upgraded during the absence of service men and the returnees themselves, careful meshing of the strands of differences will prove to be very much worthwhile.

Area Scout News

Scout Spectacular Slated for Armory

The annual Rip Van Winkle Council Scouting Spectacular will be presented at the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue March 30 featuring exhibits from Cub and Boy Scouts in the area.

Planned are booths by Cub Packs depicting "Our Heritage," both local and national. More than the exhibits and handicraft involved, one can visualize the type of program that is offered 8-10 year old boys by these Cubmasters and Den Mothers.

Boy Scout Troops will demonstrate a number of skills Scoutmasters have presented these 11-14 year olds with a program from rope work to fireman's rope work. One Explorer Post for boys over 14, specializes in telephonic communications, and is expected to have a "live wire" demonstration.

There will be a number of contests of speed and skill such as a Scout's skill in making fire without matches, rope throwing, lashing and many others.

Local Scouts have tickets as do Yallum's and Shults Paint Store. The net proceeds from this event will be used to aid in the improvement of the Tri-Mount Scout Reservation.

Cub Pack 10 Dinner Held

A record attendance was set when a total of 249 Cub Scouts and their families attended the annual Blue and Gold dinner of Cub Pack 10, served at Elmer's Inn, Ruby. Seated at the speaker's table, in addition to Cubmaster Stewart Farley, were Father Sullivan of St. Catherine Labourer Church who gave the invocation; Martin Peterson, Scoutmaster of Troop 14, Ted Pfeiffer, institutional representative from the Ruby Rod and Gun Club and Boy Scout Executive Robert Tremper and Mrs. Tremper.

An interesting talk on the theme, I'll Do My Best, was given. Also introduced to the group were the following: John McCooley, Assistant Cubmaster; Jerry Lieberman, Pack treasurer; Walter Vasilevich, advancement chairman; William McFadden and John Curci, Webelos Den leaders. It was announced that the next pack meeting will be March 25, at 7 p. m. in the Lake Katrine School, and that the Boy Scout Spectacular will be held on March 30 from 12 noon until 8:30 p. m. at the armory. Opening exercises were given by Den 1 and included the Pledge to the Flag, singing of America the Beautiful, and recitation of the Cub Scout Promise.

Highlight was the number of advancements made to the Cub Scouts as follows: Bear Badges earned by: Bart Farley, Ronald McDowell, John McCooley, Daniel Sainsbury, Edward Scholl, Donald Kaminski, David Shufeldt, James Caruba, Wolf Badges presented to: Joel Shufeldt, Mark Seaver, Paul Kaminski, Donald Malone, Gerard Todaro and Derek Miller. Gold and Silver Arrows, one each, were presented to Edward Scholl and James Caruba, who also received membership pins.

Final Protest Meeting Set At Buffalo State

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — State University at Buffalo students and faculty members planned a final mass meeting to study new directions for protest against the Vietnam war today to close their "Strike for Knowledge—Stop the War" program. Organizers of the voluntary series of debates and panel discussions on the war, claimed nearly 2,000 students participated in Wednesday's events. However, other observers said only 400 to 500 participated.

Speakers at Wednesday's sessions, mainly university faculty members and graduate students, discussed such topics as: "The University as Warmaker," "Marxism and the American Intellectual," "Anti-Communism: An American Ethic," "The Draft: Alternatives." The program was sponsored by the University Committee for a Rational Alternative. A spokesman said the "strike" was organized because changes in the draft laws had brought the war home to the University and because there was a moral obligation to discuss the war issue. On Tuesday, novelists Mitchell Goodman, indicted with Dr. Benjamin Spock for anti-draft activities, called for community support to aid those resisting selective service regulations.

The questions and answers follow:

Question: My draft board wouldn't defer me in Class II-S because I had not made normal progress toward by baccalaureate degree, but they gave me a Class I-S(C) deferment. The board said this was good for a year. If I've made normal progress by then, can I get Class II-S again?

Answer: Yes, providing you request a II-S deferment, can provide the local board with evidence that you are then satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction at the undergraduate level, and you are still under the age of 24.

Question: Do I still have a right of appeal after I have had a personal appearance before my local board?

Answer: Yes. Each classification, or determination made by your local board not to reopen your classification following your personal appearance, shall be followed by the same right of appeal as in the case of the original classification.

Question: What are the two types of conscientious objector classifications?

Answer: In Class I-A-O are those who have been found, by reason of religious training and belief, to be conscientiously opposed to combatant training and service. In Class I-O are placed those who have been found, by reason of their religious training and belief, to be conscientiously opposed to war in any form and to be conscientiously opposed to participation in both combatant and noncombatant training and service in the armed forces.

Question: I began graduate study in law school in September 1967 and am making satisfactory progress. Will I be entitled to continued deferment in II-S for my second year of law next September?

Answer: No. Under the advice of the National Security Council on Feb. 16, 1968, deferment for graduate study was limited to registrants in medicine, dentistry, or an allied medical specialty, or those who had entered the second or subsequent year of graduate study last fall.

Question: Under what authority does the National Security Council make recommendations on graduate and occupational deferments? Who are members of the council?

Answer: The Congress has directed the National Security Council to advise the director of Selective Service periodically concerning deferment of needed professional and scientific personnel and those in critical skills and other essential occupations. Members of the council are, the president, vice president, secretary of state, secretary of defense, and director of the office of emergency planning.

Question: Now that the National Security Council has recommended that the lists of essential activities and critical occupations be suspended, is there a change in the authority for granting occupational deferments?

Answer: No. Local draft boards have the continuing responsibility, by law, to determine a registrant's classification. Occupational deferments may be granted in individual cases, based on a showing of essential community need.

STICKS BY SON — Mrs. Janet Smith of Ocean Grove, N. J., reads letter from Navy about son, Parker F. Smith, an aviation machinist's mate, who was granted asylum in Sweden with seven other servicemen. Babson Speaks on Vets Job Rights

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., March 22 — When a worker has been away in military service for several years, it is easy for an employer to forget his legal responsibility to that veteran if he wants his job back when he returns. But the draft law spells it out, and the Supreme Court has brought down some decisions on special cases that are worth reviewing now that veterans are returning in substantial numbers.

Rights Under The Draft Law — First and foremost, the draft law specifies that young men discharged from the service must be treated exactly as though they had been on a furlough or leave of absence. Upon request, they must be given back their old jobs with no loss of seniority. Any fringe provisions must be theirs on the same basis that applies to employees granted leaves of absence by their company. In other words, such young men must not be deprived of any benefits accruing to their jobs while they were absent serving their country.

Personnel executives in companies both large and small should be well versed in the legalities and ethics of treating returning veterans who want their jobs back. Misunderstanding of the intent of the draft law and ignorance of subsequent court findings can cause embarrassment all round.

Upon his return, a veteran must be treated precisely as though his employment had been continuous during his absence. Any changes affecting his position while he was in the service must apply to the job when he returns. In at least one instance, even the elimination of their jobs through a labor-management agreement while the men were on duty did not release the employer from responsibility. The Supreme Court found that their stint for their country should be counted as working time in determining severance pay based on length of job tenure.

Recently, a returning veteran claimed a paid vacation that he had nearly accrued when he went into the military. The employer gave him back his position without controversy, but insisted that the employee would have to start anew in order to build up qualifications for holiday and vacation pay. Interest in the case was stirred when a federal appellate court (admittedly divided in its decision) backed the employer in his stand. The High Bench, however, reversed the appellate decision by merely pointing to an earlier precedent which had supported the stand of the workers.

Solving Hypothetical Problems — It is not always a simple question of giving back to the veteran the job and rating he had when he left for his military term. Consideration must sometimes be given to any upgrading in his position that would doubtless have occurred had he remained on his company's staff without interruption. In one recent instance, a draftsman resuming his job after his service duty claimed that restitution of his former rating was not enough. He argued that a union agreement required virtually automatic promotion as long as there was an opening on a higher level. Had he been there on the spot, he persisted, his qualification would have resulted in his achieving a more satisfactory rating. Here again, the court went along with the veteran pressing for somewhat hypothetical advances.

For management to be mindful of the best interests of returning veterans is to avoid charges of callousness, or at least carelessness. Even though it may create temporary difficulties in evening out rating differences between workers upgraded during the absence of service men and the returnees themselves, careful meshing of the strands of differences will prove to be very much worthwhile.

Specifics of Seniority Guarantees — The High Court has made it clear that seniority must in no way be lost or lessened when a man is away in the service.

Scout Spectacular

Slated for Armory

The annual Rip Van Winkle Council Scouting Spectacular will be presented at the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue March 30 featuring exhibits from Cub and Boy Scouts in the area.

Planned are booths by Cub Scouts depicting "Our Heritage," both local and national. More than the exhibits and handicraft involved, one can visualize the type of program that is offered 8-10 year old boys by these Cubmasters and Den Mothers.

Boy Scout Troops will demonstrate a number of skills Scoutmasters have presented these 11-14 year olds with a program from rope work to firemanship to communications to modern rocketry. One Explorer Post for boys over 14, specializes in telephone communications, and is expected to have a "live wire" demonstration.

There will be a number of contests of speed and skill such as a Scout's skill in making fire without matches, rope throwing, lashing and many others.

Local Scouts have tickets as do Yallum's and Shults Paint Store. The net proceeds from this event will be used to aid in the improvement of the Tri Mount Scout Reservation.

More Vandalism Reported in City

Another wave of vandalism swept the city's streets last night and finally spent itself after minor destruction that lasted for some three hours.

At 8:25 p. m. Thursday, Kingston police received a report of a stone that had been thrown through the front window of Miss Elnora Humphrey of 114 St. James Street.

It was reported that her garage can was also overturned.

At 9:20 p. m., Jessie Decker of 25 North Wilbur Avenue informed the police that the side mirror and radio antenna was snapped off his automobile which was parked in front of his house.

Ten minutes later, there was a complaint of vandals outside the Stuyvesant Motor Hotel at 37 John Street, and at 9:58 p. m. Mrs. Carl Burton of 66 Pine Street reported that someone had let the air out of her tires and tore the wipers off her car.

The destruction went on, and at 10:05 p. m., Richard Bruen of 129 Pine Street reported that "teens" had just broken the windshield wipers and the outside rear view mirror off his pickup truck.

At 11:20 p. m., Kingston detectives spotted several windows broken in a building on East Strand Street and, finally, at 11:30 p. m., George Dougherty of 5 Clinton Avenue reported that his automobile outside mirror and radio antenna were snapped off.

The car had been parked in front of his home.

Maurer Given Pledge as Newburgh Boss

Theodore W. Maurer of Poughkeepsie, who will become Newburgh's 18th city manager on Monday, March 25 at a salary of $26,000 a year, has received a "hands off" pledge from Republican Mayor George F. McKneally of the Orange County city.

McKneally hailed the 45-year-old former city manager of Poughkeepsie as "a take-charge type of city manager who will accomplish all those things that Newburgh needs."

Maurer was the unanimous choice of Newburgh's five-man council.

Maurer's salary is the highest for the office in the 52-year history of the city managership in Newburgh.

The new city manager at a press conference said in part: "It is going to be a tight ship and it is going to be a hard-fighting ship. We're going to move with speed, and we're going to put into practice some of the programs the council has adopted. We want Newburgh to move forward. We think we can make Newburgh the chief core area of the Mid-Hudson Valley."

Maurer succeeds Paul L. McCauley whose resignation was effective last Friday. McCauley was paid $16,000 a year. Maurer's salary in Poughkeepsie was $20,000.

While the Orange County city officials agreed that "Poughkeepsie's loss is Newburgh's gain," officials and leaders in the Dutchess County city felt the same way.

Poughkeepsie's eight aldermen, to a man, praised Maurer for his outstanding accomplishments in that city while in office. The Common Council had reluctantly accepted Maurer's resignation, which had been under consideration by the manager for some time during negotiations with Newburgh city officials.

Meanwhile W. Robert Richards, head of Poughkeepsie's urban renewal program, has been named acting city manager, and Maurer told officials that Richards "would be a fine choice" as his successor.

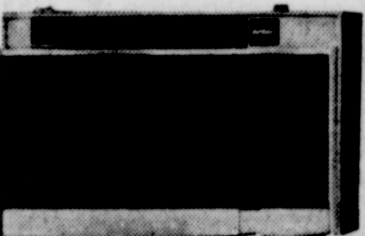

Boatman Course Offered Youth In Ellenville

Twenty-three youngsters are enrolled in the Young Boatman Safety Course which is being taught in Ellenville by Charles Kohl.

The course is sponsored by the Conservation Department's Division of Motor Boats and is designed for youngsters. Classes are held at the Town of Wawarsing municipal building in Ellenville.

According to New York State Law, youngsters between the ages of 10 and 14 must earn safety certificates before they can operate a mechanically propelled boat alone on New York State waters. They are issued safety certificates upon satisfactory completion of the Young Boatman's Safety Course.

Arrest Four Upstate at Drug Party

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y. (AP) — Two college students who allegedly were armed and two high school girls were arrested early today at what State Police described as a marijuana party.

Police said the four, all of Canajoharie, were alone in the house where one, Jarvis C. Lewis, 19, lived.

All were charged with possession of a dangerous drug. In addition, David W. Lape, 21, of the programs the council has adopted. We want Newburgh to move forward. We think we can make Newburgh the chief core area of the Mid-Hudson Valley."

At a recent town board meeting it was decided that due to a Barrytown population increase, that area should increase its district by one and Tivoli, which formerly had two be reduced to one.

The change involves transferring Tivoli's former district 2 to the Barrytown area with the new elementary school designated the new polling place. District 1 will remain the same with voting carried on at the American Legion Hall in the village.

Boundaries of the new district are Rt. 199 from Rt. 9G to Linden Avenue north to Whalen Road to Rt. 9G to Rt. 199. District 5 will remain as is, but the polling place has been changed from Boice's Garage to St. John's Episcopal Church Hall.

Burglary At Canfield's

The Canfield Supply Company, a wholesale electrical appliance store at 25 Dederick Street, was burglarized last night and a number of expensive items were taken.

According to police reports, the burglars broke open a rear window of the plant, thereby gaining entrance.

A spokesman for the company said that apparently six portable radios were taken along with two walkie-talkies, two tape recorders, and "one or two" stolen television sets.

The stolen items were on display floor.

The Canfield spokesman said that the company's safe had been opened but that there was no money to be had.

It could not be determined at this time whether any money elsewhere was part of the loot. The Kingston detective division is investigating.

Leary's Son Seeks Deferment

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP) — Dr. Timothy Leary's 18-year-old son Jon is seeking draft deferment as a conscientious objector and ordained minister, a family attorney said today.

Attorney Noel Tepper said young Leary has told local Selective Service officials he was ordained by his father as a minister in the League for Spiritual Discovery.

The elder Leary organized the league, the initials of which just happen to match those of the hallucinogenic drug that made Leary famous. He calls the league a new religion.

Young Jon lives with his father and other coreligionists on an estate at Millbrook, N. Y., turned over to Leary by his father, wealthy William Hitchcock.

Fredonia Musicians In Area on Monday

Included on the whirlwind annual tour of the Symphonic Band and Wind Ensemble of the State University College at Fredonia are concerts this Monday at the Ellenville High School, and at Ontario Central School in Boiceville. The itinerary of the Fredonia musicians includes concerts in 19 cities and communities in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Vermont, and the local schools feel honored that they have been selected for two of these programs.

The concert at Ontario will be in the form of an assembly program Monday, March 25, in the High School auditorium at 1 p. m. Featured will be the 65-piece Symphonic Band from Fredonia with Herbert Harp conducting. The band has been in existence since 1931 and Harp has been conductor since 1946, a period during which he has toured extensively in the East. Membership in the band is earned in tough competitive auditions between some 500 music majors at the college.

With Harp at the helm, the band has played, by express invitation, at the Music Educators' National Conference in Atlantic City and the New York State School Music Association Conference in Rochester. On occasion, it has also combined with both the Buffalo Philharmonic and the Erie Philharmonic of Pennsylvania, a group with which Harp serves as principal trumpet and assistant conductor.

Harp is chairman of the Fredonia Band Department, as well as the Wind and Percussion Departments. A graduate of the Julliard and Eastman Schools of Music, he appears frequently as soloist and clinician, as well as guest conductor of high schools bands in New York and Pennsylvania.

Earlier Monday, Harp and the Symphonic Band will appear in a concert at the Ellenville High School auditorium at 9:45 a. m. The program there is under the sponsorship of Ellenville's Giant Step project, recently named one of the 100 best services of its type in the U. S. Under the guidance of Sanford Grossman, Director of Federal Projects at Ellenville, Giant Step has brought much cultural enrichment and information to disadvantaged youngsters, through in-service courses taken by more than half of the teaching staff. Monday morning's audience in Ellenville will be composed mostly of elementary students, who will also be making field trips to Albany and to Howe Caverns shortly as part of the Giant Step project, which also plans a film festival next year.

This marks the second appearance this school year of a Fredonia group at Ellenville, and the concert there will feature selections from Wagner, Shostakovich, Hunsberger and Rodgers.

Poignant Occasion Honors Vivien Leigh

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Town and Gown Dining Hall of the University of Southern California was decorated with three huge photographs of Vivien Leigh—two as the fiery Scarlett O'Hara and one from her final film, "Ship of Fools." Her spirit pervaded the evening.

The Friends of the Libraries, which in previous years had saluted the achievements of Aldous Huxley, Somerset Maugham and Cole Porter, this year chose to honor an actress. The death of Miss Leigh last July and the recent re-release of her most notable film, "Gone With the Wind," made it a poignant occasion.

Chester Erskine, playwright-producer who was a personal friend of the actress, moderated the program and set the tone by describing her as "a lovely little pink cloud floating over the lives of all her friends."

Quite naturally, there was a decidedly British flavor to the reminiscences. Gladys Cooper told of playing in "That Hamilton Woman" with Miss Leigh and her new husband Laurence Olivier. Brian Aherne described her gaiety as she received friends for cocktails four days before her death. Greer Garson recalled how she and Vivien made their London stage debuts at almost the same time.

Elsa Lanchester told of Miss Leigh's early success in a film with Charles Laughton. William Wyler was impressed enough to offer the second female lead in "Wuthering Heights," telling her, "You're unknown in the United States and for your first part in America, you can't expect much more."

Her first part in America, of course, was "Gone With the Wind," and George Cukor described meeting her during the pre-production firing of Atlanta. Her agent, Myron Selznick, told his brother David and Cukor, "Here's your Scarlett O'Hara."

Joseph Cotten read an excerpt from Radie Harris's forthcoming novel, "The Day After Tomorrow."

ing biography of the actress, and Wilfred Hyde-White read from one of two British biographies. Judith Anderson, Walter Matthau, Rod Steiger and Claire Bloom offered other readings.

Stanley Kramer, who directed Miss Leigh's last film, admitted that it was not always an easy experience. One day she came on the "Ship of Fools" set and announced that the scene would play better if the set were rearranged. Kramer saw some logic in her argument and although it meant a three-hour delay in shooting, he agreed to the change.

Later she came up behind him and said in a soft voice: "I can see that you are getting disagreeable. But if you think this kind of modified bitchery is difficult, wait until you work with Katie Hepburn." Kramer, who recently did just that, added ruefully, "She was right."

The climax of the evening came with the screening of the original tests she made for "Gone With the Wind." Even

ELNARDO WEBSTER of St. Peter's pulls the ball away from Rodger Bohnenstiel of Kansas during the NIT semi-final last night at Madison Square Garden, Kansas held the high scoring Peacocks to their lowest point total of the season while scoring a 58-46 victory to advance to the finals against Dayton. Dayton and Kansas Reach NIT Finals

NEW YORK (AP) — Giant Kansas and Jo Jo White cooled off Sputtering St. Peter's 58-46 Thursday night and gained the final of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament Dayton.

Bob Hooper's decisive two free throws with 15 seconds remaining in overtime lifted Dayton over Gritty Notre Dame 76-74 in the opener at Madison Square Garden.

The Kansas Jayhawks, one of the nation's top defensive teams, took control at the start over the ice-cold Peacocks and never trailed as they ended the Cinderella hopes of the New Jersey school, trying for its third straight upset.

The Jayhawks, who measured 6-foot-10, 6-6 and 6-5 up front and with White handling the ball in backcourt, completely stopped the Peacock's vaunted fast break with a tight zone defense and a bundle of blocked shots.

St. Peter's fell behind at the start, going four minutes without a field goal and Kansas later ran off 10 straight points for a 21-10 lead as the Peacock's went 5 1/2 minutes without a point. St. Peter's later went eight minutes without a field goal in the first half.

Kansas, which hit only 36.7 per cent in the first 20 minutes, led at the half 28-19 as St. Peter's managed only seven field goals in 26 shots for 26.9 per cent, a far cry from the 58.7 per cent with which the Peacocks led the nation in shooting accuracy during the season.

The second half was more of the same. St. Peter's never got closer than seven points as White dribbled through its pressing defense and also led the Jayhawk offense with 10 points in the half.

White finished with 16 points, one less than teammate Rodger Bohnenstiel.

Harry Laurie and Tom McMahon each had 13 for St. Peter's, which finished with a 26.7 per cent from the field in its lowest scoring game of the season. Its previous low was 70.

The Jayhawks, making their first NIT appearance, also completely halted Elnardo Webster, the sensation of the tournament, who had 80 points in his first two games. The 6-5 forward, the peacock's tallest player, hit only three of 17 floor shots and scored 11 points.

Hevesi and Stadler Win Highmount Cups

Gold medals were awarded to the 13 division winners in the annual Highmount Cup ski races at Highmount.

Albert Stadler of the German Ski Club and Judy Hevesi of the Trailswepers received trophies for the fastest men's and women's times of the race. Stadler, racing in the senior men's division, turned in a time of 46.7 as he sped down the giant slalom course. Miss Hevesi, a group II skier, was close behind with a 49.6 clocking.

Dr. C. J. Goffredi and Don Dekoski of the Trailswepers set up and operated the electrical timing device belonging to the Trailswepers ski club. The device provided extremely accurate times and allowed two racers to ski the course simultaneously, one starting around 15 or 20 seconds after the other.

The 11 winners other than Stadler and Miss Hevesi were: Joe Hevesi, Bradley Davenport, Kathy Murray, Kevin McCormack, Diane Davenport, Chuck McCormack, Rich Brachold, Penny Wiltz, Kitty Buchanan, Lynn Brooks and Edie Jensen.

JUNIORS
Boys under seven — 1. Joe Hevesi (Ts) 1:11.5; 2. Jack Hamilton 1:15.1; 3. Dwight Davenport (Highmount) 1:20.0.
Group IV Boys (up to 11 years old) — 1. Bradley Davenport (Ts) 59.6; 2. Scott McKay 1:00.1; 3. Jim Murray 1:03.1.

Kingston Tourney Opens March 24

The Kingston Basketball Tournament's 15th annual edition, kicks off Sunday night with a pair of games that look to give the tourney a good opening push.

Tournament director, Andy Murphy, has slated the opening game for 7:30 and pits Donnie Vans of Kingston against the Arlington Friars. Although neither team is seeded, both feature powerful squads that have a chance of going all the way.

Loaded with local high school talent, Donnie Vans figures to be right in the running for the trophies. Arlington, comprised of former college stars, is considered a strong challenger to the crown held by Aero Lake Airport.

The nightcap Sunday (8:45) finds number two seeded DeMico Motors meeting Marlboro Tournament champ, Fellicello's, who has added a trio of ex-collegians to its already strong roster.

The completion of the quarter finals will be one week later, Sunday, March 31. The first contest, also with a 7:30 start, finds top-ranked and defending champ, Aero Lake Airport meeting Dunham Tunnel, another local team.

Kingston Stars Keep Swimming

The swimming season isn't over for Kingston High's trio of swimming stars. Craig Murray, Gene Gruner and Charles Plunket, who led the Maroon men to the DUSO league championship for the first time in Kingston High's history and established numerous school, league, and sectional records along the way, don't stop swimming when the regular high school season is over.

The boys head for Poughkeepsie three or four nights every week. There, they are star performers on the Poughkeepsie YMCA team under the direction of Jack Kennedy.

Record breaking performances by the three Kingston stars were not quite enough, however, to put Poughkeepsie YMCA team in first place in the Hudson Valley league fourth annual swimming championship held at New Paltz, Colonie Aquatic Club was the winner of the meet, totaling 284 1/2 to 267 for Poughkeepsie. Other teams entered were West Point Aquatic Club, 197 1/2, Albany Jewish Community Center 139 1/2, Uncle Sam Aquatic Club 123 and Middletown YMCA 26 1/2.

Killer's Two Home Runs Check Minnesota Slide

The Killer murdered Minnesota's exhibition baseball losing streak.

Harmon "Killer" Killebrew took personal charge of ending the seven-game string of losses Thursday when he hammered two home runs and led Minnesota to a 7-6 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Killebrew's second shot broke a 6-6 tie in the bottom of the eighth inning as the Twins won their third game in 12 spring starts, Los Angeles is 5-7.

In other games, St. Louis blanked Pittsburgh 4-0, Atlanta shut out Philadelphia 7-0, Detroit stopped Cincinnati 3-0, Oakland edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and Washington nipped the New York Mets 2-1.

Also Houston hammered Boston 11-1, the New York Yankees edged the Mexico City Tigers 5-4, San Francisco battered Cleveland 14-3 and the Chicago Cubs blanked California 1-0.

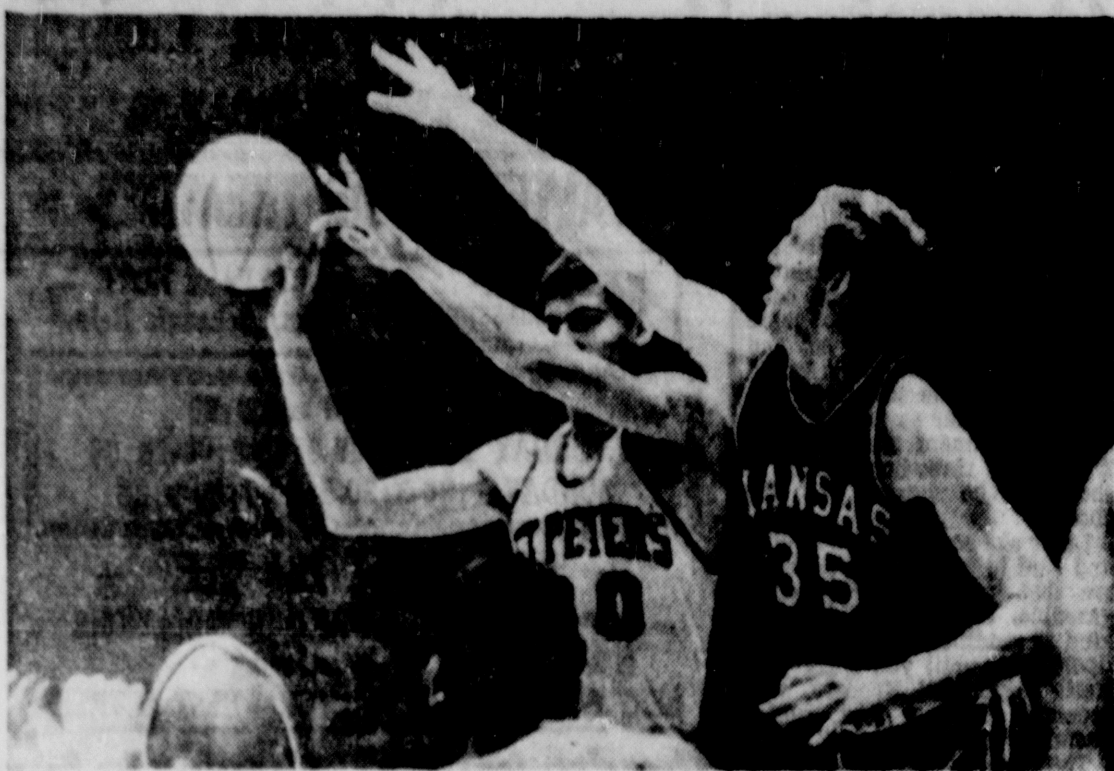

Killebrew, who tied Carl Yastrzemski for the American League lead in homers last year with 44, cracked a three-run homer in the first inning and then won it with his second shot in the eighth.

Tony Oliva had an inside-the-park homer for the Twins and Zoilo Versalles, traded by Minnesota to Los Angeles during the winter, homered for the Dodgers.

Dayton and Kansas Reach NIT Finals

NEW YORK (AP) — Giant Kansas and Jo Jo White cooled off Sputtering St. Peter's 58-46 Thursday night and gained the final of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament Dayton.

Bob Hooper's decisive two free throws with 15 seconds remaining in overtime lifted Dayton over Gritty Notre Dame 76-74 in the opener at Madison Square Garden.

The Kansas Jayhawks, one of the nation's top defensive teams, took control at the start over the ice-cold Peacocks and never trailed as they ended the Cinderella hopes of the New Jersey Knights, trying for its third straight upset.

The Jayhawks, who measured 6-foot-10, 6-6 and 6-5 up front and with White handling the ball in backcourt, completely stopped the Peacock's vaunted fast break with a tight zone defense and a bundle of blocked shots.

St. Peter's fell behind at the start, going four minutes without a field goal and Kansas later ran off 10 straight points for a 21-10 lead as the Peacock's went 5 1/2 minutes without a point. St. Peter's later went eight minutes without a field goal in the first half.

Kansas, which hit only 36.7 per cent in the first 20 minutes, led at the half 23-19 as St. Peter's managed only seven field goals in 26 shots for 25.9 per cent, a far cry from the 58.7 per cent with which the Peacocks led the nation in shooting accuracy during the season.

The second half was more of the same. St. Peter's never got closer than seven points as White dribbled through its pressing defense and also led the Jayhawk offense with 10 points in the half.

White finished with 16 points, one less than teammate Roger Bohnenstiel.

Harry Laurie and Tom McMahon each had 13 for St. Peter's, which finished with a 26.7 per cent from the field in its lowest scoring game of the season. Its previous low was 70.

The Jayhawks, making their first NIT appearance, also completely halted Elnarado Webster, the sensation of the tournament, who had 80 points in his first two games. The 6-5 forward, the peacock's tallest player, hit only three of 17 floor shots and scored 11 points.

Hevesi and Stadler Win Highmount Cups

Gold medals were awarded to the 13 division winners in the annual Highmount Cup ski races at Highmount.

Albert Stadler of the German Ski Club and Judy Hevesi of the Trailswepers received trophies for the fastest men's and women's times of the race. Stadler, racing in the senior men's division, turned in a time of 46.7 as he sped down the giant slalom course. Miss Hevesi, a group II skier, was close behind with a 59.6 clocking.

Dr. C. J. Goffredi and Don Dekoski of the Trailswepers set up and operated the electrical timing device belonging to the Trailswepers ski club. The device provided extremely accurate times and allowed two racers to ski the course simultaneously, one starting around 15 or 20 seconds after the other.

The 11 winners other than Stadler and Miss Hevesi were Joe Hevesi, Bradley Davenport, Kathy Murray, Kevin McCormack, Diane Davenport, Chuck McRoberts, Rich Brachod, Penny Wiltz, Kitty Buchanan, Lynn Brooks and Edie Jensen.

The Chicago Black Hawks did almost as much damage to themselves accidentally as the Boston Bruins inflicted on them purposely.

The Bruins routed the Black Hawks 8-0 Thursday and moved back into a tie for second place in the National Hockey League's East Division with idle New York. In the only other NHL game played, Toronto ripped Detroit 5-2.

The first of two goals by Eddie Shack had given the Bruins a 1-0 first period edge when the Hawks ran into trouble. First, Bobby Hull was struck by a teammate's stick and suffered a cut requiring eight stitches around the nose.

Then, in the opening minute of the second period, goalie Jack Norris stopped a shot by Ed Westfall only to have a Chicago defenseman sweep the puck into the Black Hawks' net.

That started a three-goal spurge with ex-Hawks Phil Esposito and Fred Stanfield quickly upping the Bruins' margin to 4-0. John McKenzie and Ken Hodge, two other ex-Hawks, Shack and Tommy Williams completed the rout.

The victory moved Boston back into a second place tie with New York, three points ahead of the four-place Hawks. New York has five games to play — one more than either Boston or Chicago.

Paul Henderson and Norm Ullman, traded to Toronto by Detroit three weeks ago, stung their ex-mates as the Maple Leafs beat the Red Wings for the second time since the big trade.

Henderson scored the winner in the third period when he converted Ullman's pass. It was Henderson's 17th goal of the season and fourth for Toronto.

Ullman had his 35th earlier, fifth since the trade — and Gary Unger, who moved to Detroit in the deal, had a goal and assist for the Wings.

Then, in the opening minute of the second period, goalie Jack Norris stopped a shot by Ed Westfall only to have a Chicago defenseman sweep the puck into the Black Hawks' net.

That started a three-goal spurge with ex-Hawks Phil Esposito and Fred Stanfield quickly upping the Bruins' margin to 4-0. John McKenzie and Ken Hodge, two other ex-Hawks, Shack and Tommy Williams completed the rout.

The victory moved Boston back into a second place tie with New York, three points ahead of the four-place Hawks. New York has five games to play — one more than either Boston or Chicago.

shut out Philadelphia 7-0, Detroit stopped Cincinnati 3-0. Oakland edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and Washington nipped the New York Mets 2-1.

Also Houston hammered Boston 11-1, the New York Yankees edged the Mexico City Tigers 5-4, San Francisco battered Cleveland 14-3 and the Chicago Cubs blanked California 1-0.

Killebrew, who tied Carl Yastrzemski for the American League lead in homers last year with 44, cracked a three-run homer in the first inning and then won it with his second shot in the eighth.

Tony Oliva had an inside-the-park homer for the Twins and Zoilo Versalles, traded by Minnesota to Los Angeles during the winter, homered for the Dodgers.

Orlando Cepeda, the National League's Most Valuable Player last season, had another big day for the Cardinals. The big first baseman hammered a home run and a double against Pittsburgh and lifted his spring average to .400 on 12 hits in 30 at bats.

Jim Bunning took most of the punishment as the Cards won their 10th game in 12 spring starts. Cepeda in his last six at bats has had a single, two doubles and two homers.

The Washington Senators maintained a perfect record against National League opponents, making the Mets their fifth straight victims. Sam Bowens homered for Washington and Ron Swoboda connected for New York.

Andy Kosco cracked a three-run homer that brought New York from behind in the eighth inning and propelled the Yankees to their victory over the Mexico City Tigers.

The second confrontation between the Big E (Elvin Hayes) and the Big A (Lew Alcindor) or Houston vs. UCLA takes place on your homescreen tonight around midnight.

Houston and the Big E won big the first time around before a national TV audience and more than 50,000 spectators under the dome in the Astrodome, the largest crowd in history for a basketball game.

The 1967-68 NCAA championship is on the line tonight. The winner goes on to take it all the following day.

This time around we're picking Lew and the Bruins. Sure, Hayes and the Cougars have maintained a blistering pace since they shattered UCLA's 49-game winning streak in the Astrodome. But we're banking on an improved Alcindor, the law of averages and the physical advantage of the home crowd to give the Bruins the equalizer.

IT SHOULD BE a titanic duel between two of the great college basketball teams of the decade and the two finest collegians since Wilt Chamberlain departed University of Kansas to make NBA history.

Don't forget... you'll only see Hayes' image tonight on the homescreen. On April 1 you can see him in the flesh at the municipal auditorium in the Boys Club benefit exhibition.

Hayes is the third highest collegiate scorer with a 37-point average, while Alcindor is 12th with 26 points per game. However, Lew leads Elvin in field goal accuracy, 60 to 57 per cent. Hayes is averaging 19 rebounds a game to Alcindor's 16.

COUGARS AND BRUINS are one-two in team offense, Houston averaging 90 points a game and UCLA, 96. Both clubs are hitting close to 50 per cent of field goal attempts. Neither team is among the top 20 defensively but Houston is the nation's top rebounding club, while UCLA is not among the top 10 in that department. The Cougars have given up an average of 71 points per game, the Bruins about 68.

Both teams are tournament tested, the Bruins winning the NCAA title last season, after beating the Cougars in the semis. Both clubs had relatively easy schedules. None of their opponents was rated in the final top 10 wire service polls.

The Cougars will try to get the ball to Hayes underneath if Alcindor isn't guarding. If he is, Elvin will shoot from outside. If the Bruins can't get the ball to Alcindor, they will count on Mike Warren and Allen for outside shooting and driving layups.

Houston will miss playmaker George Reynolds, who is ineligible for playoffs. He led the team in assists during regular season.

Our prediction again: UCLA to win.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM: John Espey, Jr., course superintendent at Wiltwyck Country Club, has just been elected to the Board of Directors of the New York State Turf Grass Association for a three-year term. He is representing the Northeastern Chapter... Herb Waterous, superintendent at the new All-America golf course at Pine Plains, says it will be ready for play this spring... Wesley Kissel, a sophomore, has received his varsity wrestling letter at Ithaca College. Young Kissel, son of the Ontario Central High basketball coach, competed in the 167-177 pound division. The Ithacans posted a 4-6-2 record this season... George Lovelless of Phenicia, won a varsity letter in gymnastics at Ithaca... Allen J. Finkelson, public relations director of Monticello Raceway, has been named a vice president of Field Associates, Ltd., a Monticello-based public relations firm.

SPRING SKIING: Despite the fact that there has been some rain, the snow base at Hunter Mountain, built up for the past three months by the snowguns, is holding up well. As of Thursday, Hunter was in its 111th day of skiing, surpassing its eight previous seasons.

Snowmaking has been the big difference in lengthening the skiing season at Hunter. With temperatures climbing, skiers can now schuss down the Hunter slopes in lighter outer garments, and enjoy some of the best skiing of the year. The access roads are in superb condition, and the mountain, a white swath in a brown background, is ideal for the springlike weather which is upon us.

Wilt and Bing Lead NBA Stax

NEW YORK (AP) — Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain established three records and Detroit's Dave Bing became the league's scoring leader, National Basketball Association figures disclosed today.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain became the first center ever to win play-making honors with 702 assists, most ever by a pivot man. He also extended his string of most consecutive games with no disqualification on personal fouls to 706 and ran his all-time career scoring total to 25,434 points.

Chamberlain's assists helped the 76ers set a team record in that category with 2,197.

The 6-3 Bing, in his second season in the NBA, took scoring honors with 2,142 points. Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson had the best average per game, 29.2 points to Bing's 27.1, but missed 17 games with injuries and finished sixth in the over-all scoring race.

The only other player to surpass 2,000 points was Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles, who had 2,002. Chamberlain was third with 1,992, one point ahead of Baltimore rookie Earl Monroe.

Chamberlain also was the league's top marksman with a 59.5 per cent average and the best rebounder with 1,952, or 23.8 per game. Robertson paced the four shooters 87.3 per cent.

Beck New President At Twaalfskill Club

Attorney George A. Beck of Kingston, who was recently elected president of The Twaalfskill Club, announces several improvements and changes at the midtown layout in a newsletter to the membership.

Other new officers are: Bernard Feeney, vice president; Dr. Michael Diacovo, secretary-treasurer. Named to three-year terms as directors were: Paul Coon, Leo Hayman and Dr. William D. Harris.

Holdover members of the board of directors include George Svirsky, Henry Hartley and Andrew Cherny. Committee chairmen named to date are: Frank Vogt, men's golf; Eugene Berardi, greens; Mrs. Paul Coon and Mrs. Eugene Berardi, co-chairmen women's golf division. John Gilligan heads the swimming pool committee.

A hike in golf and initiation fees has been announced for the following categories: men's golf, $50; women's golf, $25; intermediate golf, $25; social, $10. Initiation fees have been increased by $50 for men's golf; women's golf, $30; social $5; and pool, $25.

Physical improvements planned include the planting of additional trees between fairways 1 and 3, 7 and 8 and 9. A new porch and stairway to the ladies locker room is slated. The men's locker room will be repainted.

Purchase of a new water line to increase the volume of water for both domestic usage within the clubhouse and for the sprinkling system is also planned.

The newsletter also indicates that Twaalfskill may break long standing policy and consider the creation of a family type membership which would permit all members of a family to participate in all club activities for one annual fee.

Wilt and Bing Lead NBA Stax

NEW YORK (AP) — Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain established three records and Detroit's Dave Bing became the league's scoring leader, National Basketball Association figures disclosed today.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain became the first center ever to win play-making honors with 702 assists, most ever by a pivot man. He also extended his string of most consecutive games with no disqualification on personal fouls to 706 and ran his all-time career scoring total to 25,434 points.

Chamberlain's assists helped the 76ers set a team record in that category with 2,197.

The 6-3 Bing, in his second season in the NBA, took scoring honors with 2,142 points. Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson had the best average per game, 29.2 points to Bing's 27.1, but missed 17 games with injuries and finished sixth in the over-all scoring race.

The only other player to surpass 2,000 points was Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles, who had 2,002. Chamberlain was third with 1,992, one point ahead of Baltimore rookie Earl Monroe.

Chamberlain also was the league's top marksman with a 59.5 per cent average and the best rebounder with 1,952, or 23.8 per game. Robertson paced the foul shooters 87.3 per cent.

Rondout Valley Central High school's teachers will take on the senior class in the annual senior faculty basketball game at the Rondout gym on March 29.

At 7 p. m. the senior girls take on the women's faculty team, with the boys-senior boys game to follow. Proceeds from the evening will go to the Rondout Valley Teachers Association scholarship fund. Established in 1961 the fund has awarded 22 scholarships to Rondout High school graduates planning to enter the teaching profession.

Rondout's athletic director, Chick McEhan, declared: "These annual games are hilarious affairs. People get a real kick out of seeing creaky joints pitted against young muscles. Besides providing fun and entertainment, the events raises money to help deserving young people."

Ferraro's Average at .409 As Yankees Depart Mexico

The New York Yankees four-game swing into Mexico City was very fruitful for the team and Kingstonian Mike Ferraro.

Over the entire spring, Ferraro has hit 9-22 for a .409 average. He is still alternating playing days with Bobby Cox, to see who wins the regular job.

The Yankees announced that first squad cuts would be made Sunday.

Money Key In Negotiations For Steelworkers

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — The United Steelworkers Union says the emphasis in approaching negotiations with Big Steel and aluminum will be money — and more of it in the workers' pocket.

Citing "extraordinary" wage packages won in other industries and "unparalleled prosperity throughout the economy," the USW declared Thursday that "a substantial wage increase" heads its list of demands.

The union placed no price tag on what it would seek in next month's negotiations. Indications from delegates were that it would be in the neighborhood of about 6 per cent, matching gains achieved recently by labor in the auto, rubber and can industries.

"Workers are entitled to a more equitable share of the fruits of industry" to keep pace with the increased cost of living and "to increase the growing supply of goods and services," the USW said.

"In addition, the time has come when workers are entitled to an annual guarantee of income."

Improvements also are needed in pensions, incentive plans, insurance, vacations, holidays and other fringe benefits, the union said.

These general bargaining goals were outlined following meetings of the Basic Steel Industry Conference and Aluminum Industry Conference. Each conference is empowered to accept or reject contract proposals from industry and recommend strikes in the respective industries.

Students Dump Meals

POTSDAM, N.Y. (AP) — An estimated 150 students at the State University college here, contending they were being served "pancakes like lead and meatballs with no meat," dumped their Thursday night meals on a cafeteria table.

Daniel Hurley, dean of men, witnessed the protest, but the administration issued no statement.

Dear Abby

Living Only in the Past

(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: This is the second marriage for both Elmer and me. My first marriage was an unhappy one and ended in divorce. Elmer's first marriage (the claims) was happy, but his wife died. Do you think it's right for a husband to have pictures of his first wife all over the place? Every wall in every room of our house is covered with pictures of "her." They go all the way back to their marriage right up to pictures of her wake.

Also, Elmer made me promise that when he dies I will ship his body back to where "she" is buried, so he can be buried next to "her." How should I take all this?

SECOND FIDDLE
DEAR SECOND: It's all right for a man to remember the past, but he doesn't have to live in it. Some wives do not object to having Number One's picture "all over the place," but if you do, your feelings should be considered. As for Elmer's wanting to be buried next to "her," tell him to put it in his will and his wishes will be carried out as soon as he is.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl and my problem is my mother. She won't let me have anyone over to the house unless it's in perfect order because she's afraid the kids might go home and tell their mothers that she is a poor housekeeper.

Abby, this is silly because kids couldn't care less how the house looks. I know that I don't pay any attention to the housekeeping when I'm at someone's house visiting. And even if I did notice that a place was a mess I sure wouldn't go home and tell my mother.

Please put this in your column. My mother never misses it. Thank you.

NO COMPANY
DEAR NO COMPANY: I never give advice to one who hasn't asked for it, but in your case I'll make an exception and address this to your mother. There is nothing more reassuring to a mother than always to know where her daughter is—and with whom. You can insure this feeling by making your daughter's friends welcome in your home anytime. Youngsters take little notice of housekeeping. In fact, the "perfect" house is not nearly as inviting as the one that looks "lived in."

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I go to the home of friends for cocktails and dinner, I just hate to end up sitting by somebody else's husband.

When the hostess starts saying, "Alice, you sit over here by Bill, and Joan, you will sit beside Harry," I always say, "I still enjoy sitting by my own husband, thank you. 'Am I wrong? I would like your opinion. LIKES MY OWN DEAR LIKES: I think it is simply a matter of good manners for guests to sit where the hostess seats them."

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROBERTO: Any man who can be made "blissfully happy" or "miserably unhappy" by a woman is still "young."

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069.

Bridge Expert Bidding Becomes Weird

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Expert bidding frequently resembles a nightmare with every player trying to guess what his opponents are up to.

This hand went along tamely enough until East's jump to three spades. South had a sound opening heart bid, West had some sort of a takeout double and North had a book redouble.

East's jump to three spades was based on a stout heart and the fact that his opponents were vulnerable and he wasn't.

This crowned South into four diamonds. West entered into the spirit of the matter and went to four spades whereupon North jumped to six hearts.

North had no idea whether the contract would be a cinch or impossible. He really sort of hoped that East or West would sacrifice at six spades but East had bid more than enough and West decided to hope for two club tricks.

West did open with two rounds of clubs. South ruffed the second and proceeded to draw trumps just as anyone would.

If trumps had broken 2-2 South would have had no further problem but West showed out on the second lead. South played a third round anyway and was careful to win in his own hand.

South counted his tricks. He had four trump tricks in and could make his last trump and dummy's last trump separately for two more. The ace of spades would be his seventh trick and five diamond tricks were needed to bring home the slam. If diamonds would break nicely he could just run the five tricks off but the bidding indicated that diamonds were not going to behave properly. Therefore, South decided to play West for the jack of diamonds. He led his 10 spot and let it ride. Then he took dummy's king, picked up the suit and made his slam. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Rosetta Stone, found in 1799 by one of Napoleon's soldiers during the ill-fated French invasion of Egypt, was used as the key to understanding hieroglyphics—ancient Egyptian picture writing. The World Almanac notes that the black basalt tablet was inscribed with the same text in three languages—hieroglyphic, demotic and Greek. Jean Francois Champollion deciphered hieroglyphics by comparing Greek, a known language, with the hieroglyphic counterpart. This procedure took some 20 years to complete.

North had no idea whether the contract would be a cinch or impossible. He really sort of hoped that East or West would sacrifice at six spades but East had bid more than enough and West decided to hope for two club tricks.

West did open with two rounds of clubs. South ruffed the second and proceeded to draw trumps just as anyone would.

If triumphs had broken 2-2 South would have had no further problem but West showed out on the second lead. South played a third round anyway and was careful to win in his own hand.

South counted his tricks. He had four trump tricks in and could make his last trump and dummy's last trump separately for two more. The ace of spades would be his seventh trick and five diamonds.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Rosetta Stone, found in 1799 by one of Napoleon's soldiers during the ill-fated French invasion of Egypt, was used as the key to understanding hieroglyphics—ancient Egyptian picture writing. The World Almanac notes that the black basalt tablet was inscribed with the same text in three languages—hieroglyphic, demotic and Greek. Jean Francois Champollion deciphered hieroglyphics by comparing Greek, a known language, with the hieroglyphic counterpart. This procedure took some 20 years to complete.

 NEW YORK (AP) — Network television turned its attention to children Thursday.

It has been a period when the networks have all been getting criticism about their Saturday morning program lineup of cartoon shows.

Networks are pretty ruthless about prime time programming. An evening series that fails to win or place in the Nielsen race is usually replaced at the earliest possible moment. The Saturday-morning lineup apparently has involved the networks' precious images so something has been done.

The first event was a mid-week announcement by the educational network, in financial collaboration with two foundations and the U.S. government, that it would turn out a 26-week series of daily programming at the preschool crowd and stressing the educational aspects of entertainment.

By extraordinary coincidence, less than 24 hours later, NBC said it would present a "new concept" of programming on Saturday mornings starting next September—an hour of child-oriented programs that would consist of high grade cartoons, music and games, plus some repeat performances of special children's shows that have won good notices from adult critics.

A "New Creation"

Within hours, came word from CBS of "a major new creation" on Saturday mornings, also starting in September. That network plans to return to the old gentle "Bugs Bunny" type of cartoon—as opposed to shows starring monsters, spooks, and supermen—for two and one-half hours weekly. CBS hopes to turn out some special travel and real-life adventure shows, too.

Meanwhile, Thursday night there was the first production of the season from NBC's "Children's Theatre"—"The Reluctant Dragon," starring the puppet Kuklapolitan players and Fran Allison.

Kukla, Fran, Ollie, Cecil Bill, Beulah Witch and Mme. Ogletts, over the years have built up a hard-core legion of adult fans, since puppeteer Burr Tillstrom is a pretty sophisticated impresario, and they were not let down Thursday night.

During the hour—which was beginning to drag a bit toward the end—Ollie was magnificent in blue wig and a neck of iridescent blue sequins for dragon scales. Kukla was almost unrecognizable in a blond wig.

NEW YORK (AP)—Network television turned its attention to children Thursday.

It has been a period when the networks have all been getting criticism about their Saturday morning program lineup of cartoon shows.

Pretty Ruthless

Networks are pretty ruthless about prime time programming. An evening series that fails to win or place in the Nielsen race is usually replaced at the earliest possible moment. The Saturday morning lineup apparently has involved the networks' precious images so something has been done.

The first event was a mid-week announcement by the educational network, in financial collaboration with two foundations and the U.S. government, that it would turn out a 26-week series of daily programming at the preschool crowd and stressing the educational aspects of entertainment.

By extraordinary coincidence, less than 24 hours later, NBC said it would present a "new concept" of programming on Saturday mornings starting next September—an hour of child-oriented programs that would consist of high grade cartoons, music and games, plus some "live performance" of special children's shows that have won good notices from adult critics.

A 'New Creation'

Within hours, came word from CBS of "a major new creation" on Saturday mornings, also starting in September. That network plans to return to the old gentle "Bugs Bunny" type of cartoon—as opposed to shows starring monsters, spooks and supermen—for two and one-half hours weekly. CBS hopes to turn out some special travel and real-life adventure shows, too.

And both have plans for serials like those many-part cliffhangers that used to fill movie theaters with young on Saturday mornings.

Neither revision of programming, it was firmly stated, had been stimulated by the criticism of the cartoons now seen, and all plans were on network drafting boards long before the educational network announcement beat them to the punch.

Meanwhile, Thursday night there was the first production of the season from NBC's "Children's Theatre"—"The Reluctant Dragon," starring the puppet Kuklapolitan players and Fran Allison.

Kukla, Fran, Ollie, Cecil Bill, Beulah Witch and Mme. Oglebovs over the years have built up a hard-core legion of adult fans, since puppeteer Burr Tillstrom is a pretty sophisticated Impresario, and they were not let down Thursday night.

Started to Drag

During the hour—which was beginning to drag a bit toward the end—Ollie was magnificent in blue wig and a neck of iridescent blue sequins for dragon scales. Kukla was almost unrecognizable in a blond wig.

The story centered on the arrival of warrior St. George to get rid of a gentle, poetry-writing dragon. It had all sorts of moral lessons built in, including one about spreading false rumors. But the windup fight between St. George and the dragon was a phony, rigged by the principals—and what kind of a lesson is that?

The New York Delegation's View On the Governor's '68 Decision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Republican members of New York's congressional delegation see Gov. Rockefeller's decision not to seek the GOP's presidential nomination as depriving the party of a chance to shape its policies through debate.

"It would have been far better to have had a contest and debate within the Republican party," Sen. Jacob K. Javits said in Washington Thursday.

"A major national dialogue is imperative if the nation is to have new leadership and direction and if the Republican party is to have a clear choice," Rep. Ogden Reid of Purchase, Westchester County, asserted.

They and other colleagues commented in the wake of Rockefeller's reiteration in New York City Thursday that he would not campaign, directly or indirectly, for the presidency, partly in order to avoid a party split.

Meanwhile, State Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges said in Albany, N.Y., he believed the governor "made the right decision."

He added, however, that he still regarded Rockefeller as "the most qualified man in this nation to be president."

William E. Miller, the party's vice presidential nominee in 1964 and a former Republican national chairman, said he was not surprised by the governor's announcement.

The GOP's state chairman in New York, Charles Schoeneck, said through a spokesman he was "happy" Rockefeller would lead the state delegation to the national convention this summer. Schoeneck did not process of developing the national issues."

Rep. Henry Smith III of North Tonawanda said a Rockefeller candidacy would have led to a meaningful dialogue before the convention. He added, however, that "all Republicans should now heed Gov. Rockefeller's call for unity."

Rep. Frank J. Horton of Rochester said he hoped Richard Nixon, who Rockefeller said was favored by most party leaders, would broaden "his perspective to include all segments of the party."

Rep. Carlton J. King of Saratoga Springs said he was pleased the governor had not ruled out a possible draft.

But Rep. Charles E. Goodell of Jamestown voiced doubt about that possibility. "I do not think that a draft for Rockefeller will eventuate in view of the effective campaign being waged by Mr. Nixon," Goodell said.

hasn't said he'll seek a second full term—and faces a rugged fight for renomination if he does—there are personal as well as political reasons why he would rather see nearly anyone other than Rockefeller representing the GOP in November.

Johnson likes Rockefeller personally. He has been able to get the New Yorker's help on occasion in lining up support among governors for some of the administration's programs.

And the President has no love for Nixon. Through the years he has given the former vice president the back of his hand.

As for practical politics, to the Johnson camp Nixon apparently looked easier to tackle than Rockefeller. The governor would have been a new entry offering a new political banner for rallying Republicans and Democratic malcontents.

That goes despite Rockefeller's untested pulling power in a national election and Nixon's record as the best vote-getter in GOP harness—even though he lost the 1960 presidential election and a 1962 race for governor of California.

John F. Kennedy and running mate Lyndon B. Johnson barely squeaked by in that presidential contest.

Of course, the President isn't in the clear yet himself, what with Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota unhappy about his Vietnam policy and challenging for the Democratic nomination.

Almost every presidential speech—and there aren't many days without one or more—offers a defense of his position on Vietnam and a call for unity.

The Johnson manner and appearance betray no obvious signs of worry. He has been mocking rather than blasting his rivals so far. So the President evidently has worked up a convincing act or has a genuine confidence that he can nab the brass ring if he wants it at the Democratic convention merry-go-round in August.

But the blasting may begin against Nixon, whose march toward the Republican nomination knocked aside Gov. George Romney of Michigan and, in the view of some Johnson associates, left Rockefeller without a chance.

Actually, Johnson hasn't let up on Nixon in years.

When campaigning against Barry Goldwater in 1964, Johnson pirated a Goldwater slogan and said at Pittsburgh, Pa., just before the balloting: "I just knew in my heart that it was not right for Nixon to ever be president of the United States."

Then at a Washington news conference on Aug. 4, 1966, the President used a question about Nixon and Vietnam policy to call him a chronic campaigner who finds fault with his country and government every October in hopes of picking up "a precinct or two, a ward or two."

On that occasion, too, Johnson referred back to what President Dwight D. Eisenhower said about his vice president at a news conference Aug. 24, 1960.
